New NRA Head Moves Cautiously In Reconstruction

JAS. O'NEILL ONE KILLED 15 INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS HOPKINS AND STATE HEADS MEET TODAY

WILL PROCEED SLOWLY IN HIS CONSIDERATION OF VOLUNTARY CODES

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—The reconstructed NRA is ready to receive proposals for voluntary codes but will proceed cautiously in considering them, James I. O'Neill, New York banker, said today as he took command of NRA.

Proceeding with a banker's conservatism to the task of shaking down NRA personnel to put the organization of a stop-gap and fact-finding basis, O'Neill indicated it would be some time before he was ready to act on voluntary codes. They can be submitted immediately, however.

"We don't want to make a false start," O'Neill explained. "When we do make a move, it will be sound and based on thorough study."

The congressional act extending skeletonized NRA until April 1, 1936, permits voluntary agreements providing they set up labor standards and do not violate the anti-trust laws.

Because they cannot be enforced and provide no penalties against "chislers," many NRA officials have doubted their value. O'Neill, however, said there was widespread interest in voluntary agreements throughout industry and many proposals are being prepared.

The matter of new legislation this session for a more permanent and effective NRA is still "an open question," O'Neill said.

NRA employees are drafting reports summarizing all experience of the agency. O'Neill said it would be some time before he would be in a position to recommend for or against proposed strengthening of the law. He said there was considerable pressure from congress for the administration to sponsor "positive" legislation.

O'Neill announced that Blackwell Smith, former acting counsel, will be general counsel in the new set-up. Leon C. Henderson, former chief of research and planning will be offered an important research post.

A revision in top salaries is certain, O'Neill said. The chief officials in the former organization were paid from $8500 to $15,000, with members of the administrative board drawing $10,000 a year. These high salaries were

BANKER BURNS TO DEATH IN HIS CAR

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—(UP)—Herman A. Nater, 51, vice president of the Bank of America, was found burned to death today in the wreckage of his automobile on the outskirts of the city.

Deputy sheriffs immediately launched an investigation into the accident.

The automobile, they said, apparently had crashed at high speed into a 10-foot embankment.

The body, burned almost beyond recognition, was discovered after firemen had found the burning car.

The wreck was discovered by a bus driver who reported the fire.

FULLERTON MAN IN CUSTODY OF FEDERAL AGENTS PENDING COUNTERFEIT INVESTIGATION

LEE BASSETT, proprietor of The Liquor Shop, Fullerton, was taken into custody by "G" men from Los Angeles headquarters Saturday afternoon and is being held in Los Angeles for investigation of counterfeiting, it was learned here today.

Bassett's arrest follows a series of arrests and events in connection with the flooding of alleged counterfeit notes in Orange county, Los Angeles, and Long Beach, during the past several weeks.

Three weeks ago, a car reported to have been registered to Bassett was taken in charge by "G" men at Santa Monica, when two men were arrested in the machine and several counterfeit bills were reported confiscated. These prisoners were taken to Los Angeles. Concerning the car, Bassett is said to have stated that

GIVEN FREEDOM

Clara Phillips, hammer murderess, who was released from the women's prison at Tehachapi, after serving 12 years and 15 days.

MRS. PHILLIPS IS FREED FROM PRISON TODAY

TEHACHAPI, Cal., June 17.—(UP)—Clara Phillips, California's notorious "tiger woman," was released from prison today.

Deliriously happy, she rushed through the white iron gate of the women's prison this morning and threw herself into the arms of her sister, Miss Etta Mae Weaver.

"I'm so glad it's all over," she sobbed. "I feel so good I have to cry."

The hammer murderess was released shortly after 7:45 a. m., having served 12 years and 15 days for the brutal slaying in July, 1922, of Alberta Meadows, pretty young stenographer.

She was found guilty of second degree murder by a jury that told she beat Miss Meadows to death with a hammer and then mutilated her body because she suspected her husband, handsome Armour Phillips, of intimacies with the stenographer.

Incidentally, Deputy Sheriff James C. Farley, of Mojave, was at the gate this morning on the chance that Phillips, who once swore he would wait for his wife's release, might be there to greet Clara. Farley declined to say why he wanted to question Phillips, who last was heard of when he was detained briefly by eastern police after Brooklyn's armored car robbery.

Phillips Missing
Phillips did not come to the women's prison, however, and Farley returned to Mojave.

Clara awaited her release impatiently this morning.

Long before breakfast all her belongings were packed and she was ready to go, dressed in the best garb she could command.

She appeared before the gate with Miss Josephine Jackson, deputy warden.

The woman, who was number

Probe Of Oil Situation In H.B. Ordered

Plans for New Legislation by "Island" Drilling Proponents Fail

BULLETIN
Petitions for the recall of Mayor T. B. Talbert and Councilmen Anthony Tovatt and John Marion were presented to City Clerk Charles Furr of Huntington Beach this afternoon and were accepted for checking by Furr following a delay in which he sought legal advice on acceptance of the papers.

According to Furr, the petitions for the recall of Tovatt and Marion have 17 names each, while the one for the recall of Talbert has 21 names. Owing to the scarcity of names on the petitions, 380 being the required number for the calling of an election, Furr said he preferred to consult an attorney before accepting them.

THOROUGH INVESTIGATION OF THE HUNTINGTON BEACH OIL SITUATION WAS ORDERED BY THE ASSEMBLY AS ONE OF ITS CLOSING INCIDENTS.

A resolution passed by the lower house authorized Speaker Ted Craig to appoint a committee of five members of that body to conduct the investigation, and appropriated $2500 for expenses of the probe.

Reported plans of "island" drilling proponents at Huntington Beach, to substitute a pier drilling plan in a new bill to be introduced in the state legislature today, were left high and dry when the state legislature failed to extend its session until Wednesday, and adjourned yesterday.

Adjournment left the Standard Oil Company and its alleged group, the Signal and Hancock companies, in full control of the tideland pool, under provisions of the slant-drilling measure, which was the only bill passed, and which now awaits the signature of Governor Merriam. This bill provides payment of a royalty of 16 2-3 per cent to the state and 3 per cent to the city of Huntington Beach.

BASEBALL RESULTS

CHICAGO, June 17.—(UP)—Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, today handed down a ruling permitting Edwin C. (Alabama) Pitts, paroled Sing convict, to play in organized baseball.

Judge Landis' ruling, quelling a storm of protests that arose when Pitts was barred from baseball by the executive committee of the Minor League Baseball association, provided that a new contract must be signed between Pitts and the Albany International league club.

The new contract, Landis said, must contain a covenant providing that during the 1935 season Pitts shall play only in regular schedule games, and in no exhibition games.

"It is to Pitts' interests," Judge Landis said, "that his notoriety not be exploited or capitalized."

INTIMATIONS OF BRIBERY IN "ISLAND" DRILLING BILL ARE HURLED BY SUPERVISOR WEST

ACTION of the state senate and assembly last week in killing the "island" drilling bill, which would have yielded the state, county of Orange, and city of Huntington Beach a large royalty, while adopting the slant-drilling bill, which gives the Standard Oil company a monopoly on the tideland oil pool, has "the same unsavory smell of Teapot Dome," it was declared in a statement today by Supervisor N. E. West, of Laguna Beach, who intimated that bribery of legislators figured in the case.

"Gossip was common around the reviewing and analyzing the two corridors and capitol grounds at drilling proposals that were before the legislature, and pointing out that under the slant-drilling measure that was passed, the Standard Oil Company has the pool completely within its grasp, and can drain the state pool from its vertical wells along the beach, upon which it does not pay royalty, and pump little if any oil from the few slant-drilled wells it operates, and upon which it would be required to pay royalty."

The statement follows: "The scandal that has been brewed."

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT GRANTED TO TOM MOONEY LABOR THREATS STRIKES IN COUNTRY WANE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—(UP)—The state supreme court today assumed jurisdiction of Tom Mooney's long fight for freedom when it granted the Preparedness Day parade bomber's petition for a writ of habeas corpus, returnable June 27.

The court will undertake further hearing of the case a week from Thursday. Attorney General U. S. Webb, representing the state of California, and Warden James B. Holohan of San Quentin prison, where Mooney is imprisoned, will file an answer to the petition's allegations of "illegal and unwarranted imprisonment" at that time.

It was understood the hearing would be continued to permit Frank P. Walsh, New York, and John F. Finerty, Washington.

SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD AUG. 13

SACRAMENTO, June 17.—(UP)—A special election will be held in California August 13 for the purpose of seeking electorate approval of a $13,950,000 bond issue for enlarging and improving state institutions, hospitals and prisons.

At the same election, voters will be asked to decide on the question of permitting the state to handle its present general fund deficit of $28,000,000 by means of short term loans, rather than continuing to issue registered warrants.

A large interest saving could be made, officials said, and the deficit handled by borrowings on the chance that revenue will increase in the future.

The legislature approved bills calling the special election and naming the subjects to be voted upon.

STATE SOLONS END LONGEST SESSION ON RECORD; HOUSE IN PLAYFUL MOOD AT CLOSE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 17.—(UP)—Fiery outbursts which had marked much of the assembly activity this year gave way to playfulness during the closing hours of the legislature yesterday.

While the monotonous work of cleaning up scattered bills was in progress, paper airplanes, biscuits, paper wads, waste baskets, torn bill books and cardboard cartons sailed through the air.

Some members placed wastebaskets over their heads for protection against barrages laid down from all sides. Clouds of torn bits of paper fluttered about. The floor was littered with debris.

"It's every man for himself out there," called Speaker Edward Craig during a particularly boisterous moment.

Noisemakers came into play, desks tops were slammed and

10 Mishaps Reported To Police Here

Brakeman on S. P. Railroad Loses Life When Hit By Santa Ana Man

ONE MAN was killed, 15 persons were injured and one man was under arrest today as the result of 10 automobile accidents reported in Orange county over the week-end. The casualty brings the total to 27 persons killed here since the first of the year, compared with 26 at this time last year.

Earl Witten, 40, brakeman on a Southern Pacific railroad freight train was fatally injured at 12:10 a. m. today when he was struck by a car driven by Blair Little, 25, of 711 North Main street, Santa Ana.

The accident occurred at the railroad crossing of the Southern Pacific and Lincoln avenue, outside the city limits of Anaheim. Witten died in the Anaheim Community hospital at 4:20 a. m. Death was due to punctured lungs. He also suffered a broken leg.

According to reports on file, Little was driving west on the boulevard. In order to miss the crossing, he swerved towards the ditch at the side of the road. Witten, the brakeman on the train which was approaching the crossing, he swerved towards the ditch at the side of the road. HUGE CLIPPER STARTS BACK FOR HONOLULU

SAND ISLAND, Midway Islands, June 17.—(UP)—Retracing its non-stop flight course over 1388 miles of water between Midway Islands and Honolulu, Pan American Airways' trail-blazing Clipper ship left Sand Island at 8:54 a. m. PST today.

The huge, silver monoplane landed on Sand Island's coral-reefed lagoon at 5:40 p. m. PST Saturday, after history's first air journey between the two mid-Pacific island groups, navigated without a halt.

The flight, staged for the purpose of obtaining geographical, meteorological and long-range overwater flight data, brought the world's first two midocean air passengers to Sand Island, second of a trans-Pacific series of air bases commercial aviators will employ in projected California to China passenger and mail service.

The men were Philip Bersh, the air line's sectional maintenance superintendent, and C. W. Winter, Pan American radio engineer, who inspected the Midway Island radio beacon equipment.

With Capt. Edwin C. Musick, the four-motored air Leviathan's skipper, and his five veteran crewmen, Bersh and Winter signed a Sand Island flight register, in which will be written the names of air voyagers of the future, preserving a permanent record of those who cross the Pacific by air.

Their arrival here not only signalled arrival of history's first mid-Pacific air passengers, but also inaugurated this lonely island

HUENEME PROJECT DENIED PWA LOAN

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes said today the Huememe dock project at Huememe, Calif., definitely had been refused a PWA loan and would be given no further consideration.

Ickes made the statement after a conference with Rep. Henry E. Stubbins, D., Calif., sponsor of the $1,600,000 proposal.

Ickes declined to act on a request of Stubbins that the project be reconsidered on a basis of Pacific coast costs, and said that "There is no use beating about the bush—it is definitely turned down."

Stubbins and other proponents of the project contended that estimates of PWA and the army board of engineers were based on figures obtained from Atlantic coast area and were unfair to the Huememe project.

COUNTY ROAD BILL KILLED BY SOLONS

SACRAMENTO, June 17.—(UP)—Addition of county roads to the state secondary highway system was blocked in the last hours of the legislative session when both houses refused to accept a "free conference" report on a so-called "omnibus" road bill.

Originating in the senate, the bill first provided for the addition of 1000 miles to the state secondary system. The assembly added another 400 miles and the measure was sent to free conference.

The committee representing both houses reduced the mileage to 222 for 13 out of the 45 Northern California counties and 170 miles for eight out of 13 Southern California counties.

NEW NRA HEAD

James L. O'Neill, New York banker, who today took command of the reconstructed NRA. His appointment was announced yesterday by President Roosevelt.

WILL PROCEED SLOWLY IN HIS CONSIDERATION OF VOLUNTARY CODES

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, today started off the New Deal's $4,000,000,000 employment drive by charging state program directors with the personal responsibility of putting 3,500,000 needy to work within a year.

"The president and the public are looking for you to do this job," Hopkins told them in the first session of a two-day conference to quicken the drive.

Hopkins laid down these broad rules for state directors:

1. The drive must be ended by employment of 3,500,000 needy by July 1, 1936.
2. State works progress directors will be responsible for success of the program by seeing that their employment projects average $100 for each man employed, including wages and cost of materials.
3. Projects financed by the government must be "useful developments" giving the government full value for every dollar spent.
4. There must be no "playing of politics" in the employment drive. Appointments must be kept free of "patronage".

Hopkins emphasized that the state program directors would be responsible directly to him and ordered them to withstand "any possible political pressure" from any source.

Hopkins sounded a keynote of "efficiency" for the program, insisting that "we must make as few mistakes as possible."

LATE FLASHES

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—The senate today, without a record vote, rejected the major plank in Huey P. Long's "Share-the-wealth" program.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—World wide money devaluation was averted by financial aid extended to France by the United States government several weeks ago, it was learned in administration circles today.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—The house merchant marine committee today submitted a rider to the Bland-Copeland ship subsidy bill creating the world's most stringent liability regulations for shipowners in case of loss of life through negligence.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—A $3,000,000,000 "share-the-wealth" old-age pension, unemployment insurance and child welfare plan was offered by Sen. Huey P. Long, D., La., today as a substitute for major features of the administration's social security program.

Long proposed to appropriate $3,000,000,000 to pay all persons over 60 years old a $30-a-month pension, $1,000,000,000 for unemployment insurance, and a like amount to care for dependent children.

BELIEVED CLARA PHILLIPS MAY ATTEMPT RENDEZVOUS IN SANTA ANA WITH HER HUSBAND

ON A TIP that Clara Phillips, Los Angeles "Tiger Woman," freed from prison this morning after serving 12 years for the murder of Alberta Meadows, her husband's girl friend, was headed for Santa Ana to keep a rendezvous with her husband, Armour Phillips, Santa Ana police started a search for her.

Police have nothing on Clara, Phillips' demanded Farley. It was but deputy sheriffs of Mojave, a reiteration of a question put to her in the prison before her release. The Los Angeles "Tiger Woman" again denied a rendezvous.

"We have nothing on Clara," Farley said. "It's Phillips we want to talk to." Farley intimated to reporters that he had expected Clara to meet her husband at Mojave.

Mrs. Phillips and her sister left Mojave a second time, a newspaper car and Farley's machine still following. She was expected to cross the Mojave desert to Riverside and then to Santa Ana, enroute to La Mesa, near San Diego where her aged mother awaits her.

If she comes to Santa Ana for the reported rendezvous, her car is scheduled to arrive early this afternoon.

Into service as the world's first mid-ocean aviation station. Captain Mustek and his companions spent yesterday tuning their plane, checking its equipment and touring the little island which will be the second mid-ocean stop of Pan American's new California to China air service. After a short stay, possibly four days, at Honolulu, the plane is to return to its home base at Alameda airport, Calif.

Later in the summer the plane will blaze the trail of commercial aviation further westward from the United States. Its next flight might be to Wake Islands, 1442 miles beyond Midway, where landing facilities now are being completed, or it might go on all the way to Manila, where the construction crew begins work this week. In between is Guam, where another station will be constructed.

Investigate Site For Soil Erosion Camps In County

Paul B. Dickey, California soil conservation service engineer, will be in Santa Ana this afternoon to investigate possible sites for the CCC camp whose project will carry on an erosion control project in the county. It was announced today by Farm Adviser Harold Wahlberg.

Outstanding measures approved by the 51st California legislature included the following:

The $376,656,298 budget bill for handling state governmental expenses for 1935-37. It included $24,000,000 for unemployment relief for the first half of the biennium.

A personal income tax at one-fourth the federal rate.

An increased sales tax rate, from two to three per cent, with food exempted.

Increased bank and corporation franchise taxes.

A state tax on automobiles, in lieu of personal property taxes on vehicles. The rate of $1.75 per $100 actual valuation would raise in excess of $25,000,000 in two years, and nearly $10,000,000 would be returned to cities and counties.

Effective for two years.

Bills tightening provisions of the sales tax act.

A tax of 80 cents a gallon on hard liquor.

A tax on chain stores, ranging from $1 on the first to $500 on the tenth store and each above ten.

Increased inheritance tax rates.

A tax on foreign oils used in the manufacture of butter substitutes.

A moratorium on mortgages, similar to the Minnesota plan.

Old Age Security

Liberalization of the state old age security act, reducing the age requirement from 70 to 65, and setting the minimum benefit at $20 a month, raising the maximum from $30 to $35.

An unemployment insurance measure.

Repeal of the three-day "gin marriage" law.

Placing trucking under jurisdiction of the state railroad commission.

An appropriation of $400,000 to be used for purchasing a site for a prison in Southern California.

Continuation of the act prohibiting political subdivisions from increasing their budgets more than five per cent above the previous year's expenditures.

Permission to tap state-owned tideland oil pools by means of slant drilling from adjacent locations.

A bill giving the toll bridge authority power to contract for an interurban service over the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge.

Increasing cities' share of the gas tax from 1-4 to 1-2 cent a gallon.

A bill legalizing betting at, and operating of, dog racing tracks.

Changing the names of teachers colleges to "state colleges".

27844 until she passed through the gate, wore a close fitting blue hat with a black veil. Under her long black coat, trimmed in fur, she had a black dress. Her pumps were white. Her face was powdered but she used no rouge.

Her grey-streaked brown hair was tightly curled. Her hazel blue eyes smiled cheerfully.

"Goodbye," Clara said, as she extended her hand to the warden.

"Goodbye, Clara," Miss Jackson answered, "you've been a good girl."

Then Clara ran through the iron gate, which ironically enough has a huge horseshoe at the center of the arch above it.

Greets Sister

She threw her arms around her sister and they wept together, happily.

Clara's violin, saxophone and her two traveling cases were stored in the sister's automobile and they drove away. Clara waved a last farewell to the prison that had been her home.

The hammer slayer and her sister intended to drive directly to La Mesa, 20 miles east of San Diego, where she will live for the time being with her mother, Mrs. O. Weaver.

"I have no immediate plans for the future," Clara said a few minutes before her release. "I merely want to rest for a while and to get out of the public eye. I hope to become a useful citizen but I don't know exactly what I'll do."

"And boys," she said to newspapermen, "don't say I've paid for my crime for I didn't commit any crime. I didn't kill her (Alberta Meadows)." "And another thing," she added. "Please get it right about my age. All the newspapers say I'm 37. I'm not. I was born in 1900 so that makes me only 35."

Her next birthday at 35 or 37 will be Sunday.

Clara said goodbye to her former fellow prisoners last night when she had a "home going" party. She said she slept but little, being too nervous about the close approach of freedom.

Clara's concern about the papers getting her age correct was characteristic.

For the very time she first hit the public eye she has prided herself on her rather hard beauty and her shapely legs.

Before her marriage to Phillips, then an oil promoter, she had been a chorus girl.

State police were making an investigation today to determine if there was another passenger in the Little machine at the time of the accident.

One of the most peculiar accidents on record here occurred Saturday night at 7:50 p.m. when a runaway motorcycle, with a girl riding, who knew nothing about motorcycles, crashed into a car driven by Edgar H. Spicer, 38, or 2415 North Main street. In some miraculous manner, she escaped serious injury.

Cycle Runs Away

The girl, Madeline Best, 18, of 602 Garfield street, was riding with a friend, Glenn R. Kinney, of Garden Grove. He stopped his bike at the corner of Chestnut and South Main street, at the curb and left the motor running while he went into a nearby store after cigarettes. The girl, in some manner, started the motorcycle and it ran away, through heavy traffic down the street until it crashed into the oncoming Spicer car.

The girl was taken to the county hospital where she was treated for minor bruises about the body and legs and a bruised head. No one in the Spicer machine was reported hurt.

Three persons were injured at 1:15 a. m. Sunday on No. 101 Highway, one mile south of Anaheim, when cars driven by Ray F. Castillo, 22, Route No. 3, Box 335, Anaheim and H. Burton Phillips, 27, 752 West Frisby Drive, Pomona, collided.

Castillo was arrested on a charge that he had never applied for an operator's license. He is not in jail.

E. D. Phillips, and Mrs. H. B. Phillips, both of 752 West Frisby Drive, Pomona, and Claude Higuera, of Anaheim, Route No. 3, were reported injured. They were taken to the Orange county hospital where first aid was given and then taken to their homes. Castillo reported he went to sleep at the wheel, officers said. The cars crashed head-on, the Castillo machine going North and Phillips driving South.

Ricardo DeReyes, 47, Buena Park, was run down and seriously injured at 3 a. m. Sunday, on Grand avenue, 200 feet South of Commonwealth avenue, Buena Park, by an automobile driven by William Emil Linden, 58, of 2208 West Eighth street, Los Angeles, state police reported.

Taken to Hospital

John Wilson, of 714 East Sixth street was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, slightly injured at 7 p.m. Saturday, after the car he was driving collided with an automobile driven by R. L. Peterson, of 728 Eastwood avenue. The accident occurred at Fruit and Poinsettia streets.

George Edwin Shoebright, 54, of 316 Edgewood Road, was cut about the face when the car he was driving collided with a car operated by Henry T. Foust, of 323 South Main street, Saturday night at 9:15 o'clock. The accident occurred as the Foust machine was being backed out of a driveway. Shoebright was driving south on Main street at the time and the accident occurred in front of the Foust home. He was not badly hurt.

Pete Salgado, of Stanton, was reported in a critical condition at the Orange County hospital today from injuries received in an automobile accident near his home, which has not been reported to authorities. He was taken to the hospital at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. Injury to his spinal column and head injuries may result in his death, it was reported.

Lucy Munoz, 35, of 560 Avenue 28, Los Angeles, is in the county hospital with several fractured ribs and cuts and bruises, received in an automobile accident near Huntington Beach late Saturday night.

Four Orange girls were injured at 2:45 p. m. Saturday when cars driven by L. A. Webster, of 2506 West Chapman avenue and Miss Irma Meyer, of 540 East Washington avenue, Santa Ana, collided at the intersection of Almond and Lemon streets in Orange.

The girls, all of whom received cuts and bruises were Phyllis Webster, 12, Mary Webster, 11, and Frances Peer, 13. They were taken to a doctor's office in Orange and then removed to their homes.

ing over the Huntington Beach Tideland oil pool is only another chapter in the history of the oil business. No other great American industry has been responsible for so large a number of scandals, state and national, as that of the oil business. Financial giants and high public officials, including a member of a president's cabinet, have been indicted and tried before various courts of the land. A strange fact running through the history of the oil business is the large number of investigations and the indictments, compared to the few convictions obtained or penalties imposed.

"Even where convictions have been obtained, the penalties have rarely been paid. As an example, in 1911, the federal government found the Standard Oil Company a monopoly and guilty of crimes against the public. A fine of 29 million dollars was levied. And this great oil monopoly of 26 Broadway, New York City, was ordered dissolved into 20 odd competing companies or groups. Today many of the companies resulting from this dissolution by court decree are larger and more powerful than the parent company ordered dissolved by the court. The 29 million dollar fine was never paid.

Recalls Trial

"Few who read even the newspaper story of the trial of the Standard Oil Company will forget the heartless, sordid and wholly inhuman practices revealed in the evidence at the trial. There seems to be something in the very nature of the oil business which transfers the slippery quality of the substance itself to those who deal in it. The array of charges and indictments of the Talbots, Fullers, Dohenys, Falls and so on, back to the King Fish of the oil industry himself.

"A gallant fight has been made by the public and its officials, who sometimes combine intelligence, courage and honesty, for fair dealing in this great natural resource of the country. But the public has seldom won a skirmish and never a major engagement. I predict that the public is licked in the case of guilty to the charge. Restitution of the Huntington Beach oil field and will remain licked until huge money can cease to corrupt elected officials, and until the mass of voters become sufficiently informed and interested as to be no longer deluded by smoke screen issues raised by stockholders, employees, and others with a selfish interest.

"About the state oil pool at Huntington Beach, there are two simple propositions. First: will the taxpayers of this state demand that this oil be developed on behalf of the public who owns it? Second: How can the public's rightful ownership to this wealth be realized?

Proposition 11

"Proposition No. 11, voted on by the people in 1932, proposed to turn over this state-owned oil reservoir to the City of Huntington Beach. The State would have gotten nothing unless Huntington Beach had in turn leased this oil field on a royalty basis. In this event the state was to receive one-half of the royalty. The voters turned down this proposition. I believe the public would the more readily oppose turning this public wealth over to Standard Oil Company.

"Assembly Bill No. 1684, now on the governor's desk proposes, not the turning over of this oil field to the City of Huntington Beach but to the Standard Oil Company, and on a royalty, of 16-2-3 per cent to the state compared to 36 percent royalty basis that has actually been offered the public. It is generally believed that 40 or 45 per cent royalty could be realized on an honest competitive bid by a responsible company.

"The Standard Oil Company owns all the shore line fronting this field. It is obvious, therefore, that no one can take this oil except on Standard Oil's terms or by drilling from the tidelands. And here is the crux of the opposition from those who would see the public deprived of its share in this greatest known state owned wealth.

"Those who oppose drilling from the tide-waters may be divided into two classes; (a) those who honestly and sincerely fear the pollution of the beaches; (b) those who have a selfish interest in robbing the public of this vast wealth and their employees or those otherwise subservient to the "inspired slogans."

Many Telegrams

"During the recent debate in the assembly and senate at Sacramento on the Huntington Beach question, almost every legislator had large sheaves of telegrams. A great percentage of these were without question inspired by one of the great oil companies. In fact, one after another of these telegrams were verbatim and were shown to come from the employees of the oil company and their relatives who vigorously proclaimed themselves as unalterably opposed to the pollution of the beaches.

"It is hard to believe that anyone, not dictated to by his employer, or otherwise selfishly benefiting, would favor putting oil wells in the tidelands of this coast line, if he had knowledge or was convinced that there was real danger of polluting the beaches.

"For my part, after going into this question of danger of pollution with several competent and unprejudiced oil men, and after listening to a large number of experts at the recent oil hearing in Huntington Beach, all of whom testified that the oil from this Huntington Beach pool could be developed from its tidewaters without any real danger of polluting the beaches, I much prefer to see the taxpayers benefit from this public-owned resource than to see it turned over as a reward to private greed and cupidity.

Favors Competition

"The largest property owner in the county, who owns several miles of the finest coastline property in Orange county favors competitive development of this oil field. Most of my own property fronts on the bathing beach at Laguna. But I am not as much afraid of pollution from tideland development, as I am of having my property value destroyed by ever-mounting taxes, while the state surrenders to vested interests its great natural resources.

"All during this fight I have urged the right of the public to the benefits of competitive bidding in this field. After Assembly Bill 1684 was presented, allowing the state only 16 2/3 per cent, the county nothing, I favored the Gilmore proposition, not because I thought it gave the people all they should have, but according to those in the assembly, backing the measure, it offered the public the best it could hope for—the 36 per cent offered was nearly double what the Standard Assembly Bill 1684 offered the public. And of vast importance to the people of this county, we would have received a 3 per cent royalty, or an estimated annual income of from $400,000 to $500,000 for the next 20 years or more. With 22 printed pages of delinquent tax properties in Orange county this $400,000 or $500,000 of new revenue would especially be welcome.

"While this oil fight is first a state issue, I have contended that the County of Orange and the City of Huntington Beach, because of their location and expenditure in developing this area, should participate directly in the royalties from production—though neither city or county have any legal rights to this oil.

Can Expect Little

"Just what can the public expect in royalties, from oil taken from this state-owned pool, whether the governor does, or does not, sign Assembly Bill 1684? The answer to this is little or nothing in addition to what it is now receiving.

"First the bill does not require the Standard Oil to drill further wells into this pool from shore; secondly, if they should drill they would be required to pay the state 1-2-3 per cent production from all new wells. The Standard Oil Company already has 28 wells, six of which are whistpocket into the state's pool, and 22 of which are drilled at the edge of the bluff or beach. On the oil produced from these wells the Standard is paying no royalty. It can not be made to pay royalty on any of these wells except possibly the 6 that are slanted into the state oil. Competent geologists say the 22 vertical wells are draining, and can continue to drain a substantial part of the state's pool indirectly due to the pervious nature of the oil sand and the migratory nature of the oil itself. So what? The Standard Oil Company will naturally produce as little as possible from whistpocket wells on which it pays a royalty and drain as much of the state oil as it can from its vertical wells on which it pays no royalty, either to the state, city or county. Hence, the Standard Oil Company will take the oil, with but little royalty, whether Assembly Bill 1684 is signed or vetoed.

"Smoke Screen"

"Those who are not informed or convinced of the technological ability to produce this oil from the tidelands without danger of polluting the beaches, will naturally resign themselves to the fact that the public cannot do anything to prevent this colossal theft. However, those who have raised and financed the argument of beach pollution are well aware that it is only a smoke screen and many of these advocates have so confessed as we see what the uninformed public have been scared into demanding of them. . . .

"It was encouraging to find that James B. Utt, our representative, whose district covers the coastline, has not been confused by inspired telegrams or smoke screen issues, and has fought straight through for the public's right.

"Senate bill 959 providing competitive development of this oil field, passed the assembly 46 to 32. A poll of the senate Thursday night, June 13, was reported to show a favorable vote in the senate by at least two or three majority. Yet the following morning when the measure came up, Senator Swing of San Bernardino who had agreed to handle the bill, suddenly and mysteriously requested the assembly amendment be not concurred in. Thus, the measure met the death of Cock Robin, Senator N. T. Edwards not voting. Apparently there was nothing in writing, but gossip was common around the corridors and the capitol grounds that from $50,000 to $200,000 had changed hands. So far as I know this rumor has not been proved, but, as we recall, it took the United States department of justice and the best legal brains in the country several years to run down and prove the Tea Pot Dome scandal. This has the same uneasy smell as that scandal did for years before it became a matter of court record. Maybe those who switched the last few hours will give the public some explanation other than that their sudden conversion against the measure was the result of inspired telegrams which they received.

"If there is anything more pathetic or tragic in government than IGNORANCE IN ACTION it is a corrupted leadership deluding Mooney's eastern attorneys, to be present for a review of the case.

Mooney's supreme court petition was filed after the case had been taken through a number of other courts, including federal district court, the federal circuit court of appeals and finally to the U. S. supreme court.

Mooney won his first victory before the nation's highest tribunal when the court ruled that resources of state courts had not been exhausted and ordered the petition taken once again into the courts where Mooney was convicted. The U. S. supreme court decision left the way clear for re-submission in Washington if and when all state courts had refused his plea.

The famed prisoner's first action thereafter was to file his petition in Marin county superior court at San Rafael. The petition was denied and the case then was taken to the state supreme court.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— News Behind the News —

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

1-TO-3
Silver Senators impatient at Secretary Morgenthau's purchases of the white metal should get out their pads and pencils. They may learn a few things which don't show on the treasury's public books.

Mr. Morgenthau has bought slightly less than $600,000,000 of silver since passage of the national purchase act in June of 1934. The monetary value of the silver stock before he entered the market was about $200,000,000, making the present holdings just about $1,380,000,000. But the total monetary value of silver holdings must reach $2,000,000,000 to give the 1-to-3 ratio to our gold stock required by congress.

That will take more than three years at the present rate of purchase and gold supply. Even if the treasury hurriedly estimated at $30,000,000 ounces it could not make the silverites happy short of that period. Not without driving China, Mexico and India to barter.

LIBERALS
Republican Progressives reacted angrily to the conservative platform of the "grass roots" convention at Springfield. Headed by two wealthy New Yorkers gunning for the Hillis-Mills-Wadsworth faction they are scheming to stop a "grass roots" parody for GOP liberals.

They found sympathetic customers when they recently brought their idea to Washington. They talked with insurgent senators read out of the party by the Springfield assembly. They conferred with Bull Moosers who hold office in the chief FDP. Their plan skilfully arranged parties and dinners. The stage managers saw to that.

The New York conspirators—ex-State Chairman Kingsland Macy and ex-Treasurer William Ziegler—have already flung together a Progressive committee in Mr. Roosevelt's state. Now they mean to branch out. And they have the necessary mazzuma if they're serious about it.

DIVORCES
The Communications Commission is split into two factions—"liberals" and "conservatives." Its vote requiring a breakup of interlocking wire directorates did not represent its real sentiment. It would have voted the other way except that a pro-industry stand might have jeopardized senatorial confirmation.

Commissioner Sykes spoke against enforcing the requirement. Chairman Prall was tacitly in opposition. But both sided with "liberals" when the roll was called. The only argument offered against the plan mandate of the law was the ICC's example. It has severed these ties in only 200 of 5000 railroad cases.

But the wire corporations can blame nobody except themselves. Had they submitted powerful arguments that interlocking arrangements were in the public interest they might have been spared painful divorces. Instead, they sulked. They merely said they wanted to carry on as they pleased.

BOTTLED
Harry Hopkins and Harry Ickes will come to verbal blows one of these days. Both relief chieftains are hot-tempered as well as thirsty for power.

Mr. Hopkins' regulation that all workers must come from the relief rolls cripples Mr. Ickes' PWA. Contractors warn that they will not entrust costly, delicate machinery to people whose only qualification is their need of a job. The Hopkins requirement that actual expenditure on a construction site shall be only $1410 per man per year outlaws heavy-construction work. It takes no account of the employment given through manufacture of steel, cement and brick away from the job.

Not a cent of the $4,000,000,000 fund granted two months ago has yet been spent in the field. Red tape, the maze of organization and Mr. Hopkins have bottled it up in the treasury.

IMPASSE
The Ickes people suspect Mr. Hopkins of a deliberate scheme to gain control of all work relief and PWA spending. They do not make the charge openly as yet, though it may pop soon.

Under the slow, cautious Ickes system there is no hope for attaining a peak of employment at the time set by President Roosevelt—mid-November. There is no chance of putting 2,500,000 people to work within a year. Such PWA projects as bridges, tunnels, power plants, alum clearances and grade crossings cannot be advanced so soon.

Facing the impasse Mr. Hopkins is expected to revive his CWA undertakings—raking leaves, patching roads, building culverts. This will furnish quick, light employment. But it will not revive the durable goods industries. It will be patch work. But the need of providing jobs through the fall and winter months may force Mr. Roosevelt to side with Hopkins against his Secretary of the Interior. Exuberant Harry is still the fair-haired boy around the White House.

FAME
Two back-row Democratic senators recently promulgated in limelight reserved for veterans. For two years Senator Brown of New Hampshire and Senator Dietrich of Illinois sat side by side without attracting more than casual attention. Then they grew famous by taking different sides on the same major controversial measure. Liberals staged a handshaking soiree for Mr. Brown in tribute to his speech attacking holding companies. Conservatives welcomed Mr. Dietrich as a valuable reinforcement. They chatted at the embarrassment which his amendment blocking abolition of holding corporations gave to Vice-President Garner. Had the Texan been quicker in announcing the result it would have been up to him—instantly a conservative—to break the tie. "Jack" would have had to choose between his beliefs and his loyalty to the administration. Mr. Brown's chief claim to fame in the past was his record as a college and major league baseball player. Mr. Dietrich's only previous effort was a sharp patronage criticism of the late Mayor Cermak of Chicago. It was issued on the day Mr. Cermak was killed by a bullet. Senatorial fame comes and goes quickly.

NOTES
The social security bill will be attacked on constitutional grounds in the senate—on the claim that the unemployment insurance feature is an attempt to coerce the states. It's a footnote between strikes and the Wagner-Guffey bills. Miss Perkins is set to control the labor board under the new Wagner bill. Governors and mayors are pressing for action under the work-relief law. Senate gallery-gods hugely enjoy Huey Long when he filibusters.

NEW YORK
By James M. Kullin

SIMPLER
NEW YORK, June 17.—The New Deal attack on holding companies is developing from the flank in addition to the frontal assault via the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. That's the point of the Federal Communications Commission order to Walter Gifford, Newcomb Carlton, Sothenes Behn, David Sarnoff and others to resign from all but one of their directorships in communications companies. The theory is that this will promote independence among the subsidiaries of American Telephone, International Telephone, etc., and reduce the New York influence.

It won't work that way in practice. The Messrs Gifford, Behn, et al, may have to operate in a more roundabout way—but don't kid yourself that they won't be effective. In many cases local directors will be named for the smaller dependent corporations in accordance with Washington's home rule policy—but it's a safe bet they won't be the type to go off on tangents of their own.

In view of the obvious intent to smash New York domination you might think the big timers involved would fight the ruling. It's not likely. There would be little point in picking a quarrel with Washington when there are simpler ways of skinning the cat.

COMPLACENT
Meanwhile the utilities are surprisingly unperturbed by Senate passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Even the Borah amendment to outlaw all intermediate holding companies failed to excite them—except for publication. The strength of utility securities the day after the Senate vote reflected inner sentiment. No true friend of regulation would have offered so drastic a clause at this stage.

There are two reasons for this complacency. One is that Rayburn has been having lots of trouble with his House Committee. The House is far less hostile to the power interests than the Senate. Softening amendments barely failed in the Senate—therefore they are rated a cinch to win in the House or in conference. But the extraction of the Borah teeth in conference might jam the whole works.

Behind the parliamentary obstruction is the virtually unanimous conviction of leading New York lawyers that the bill as it stands could not get by the courts. The boys would naturally have preferred a rousing Congressional victory for their side. But they see nothing worse in defeat than the need to carry the fight a little farther.

STROKE
The New York Republican reaction to the "grass-roots" conference was a politely concealed yawn.

Backstagers just can't see where the powwow accomplished a thing. A man high in GOP councils calls the "platform" evolved at Springfield a "masterpiece of egg-walking." Another remarks that if that's the best the Middle West can do maybe the Eastern party leadership isn't as dumb as he thought.

But observers do credit the grass-roots with one smart stroke—the playing up of Al Smith. Not that they take him seriously as a coalition candidate or anything like that. What they figure is that if enough people whoop it up for Al he might at least be pepped up to campaign actively against FDR—which is really all they want of him.

COSTLY
New York insiders learn that Premier Laval has privately advised the Bank of France not to be so darned hard-boiled. He has pointed out to the financial powers that they would be wise not to haggle about extending all the credit the government needs if they really wish to avoid devaluation. He stressed the point that the government has to have money—and if orthodox channels aren't functioning there are always other methods.

The Bank can hardly afford to ignore the delicate threat. It stands to lose heavily from inflation. It might have taken a chance on the nerve of another premier but it knows that Laval isn't fooling and has no intention of being made the goat for a financial breakdown. In a way the situation parallels our own FDR, would never have been able to keep the inflationists at bay except for the ease with which Treasury credit could be expanded through the banks. Laval will get the advances he needs but they will cost him a lot more money than Uncle Sam has

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED BY GIRL'S GROUP

FULLERTON, June 17.—With 200 guests in attendance, new officers of Bethel No. 13, Order of Job's Daughters, were installed at a formal ceremony Saturday night at Masonic temple. Betty Lou Clayton, of La Habra, was installed as queen, replacing Katherine Houseworth.

Other officers are Marjorie Rodger, senior princess; Nina Johnson, junior princess; Bonnie Miller, guide; Helen Whitaker, marshal; Lillian Knisley, chaplain; Charlotte Mennis, pianist; Dorothy Stewart, recorder; Ruth Marie Launer, treasurer; Mary Alma Rodger, librarian; Margaret Cariker, junior custodian; Ella Mae Brown, senior custodian; Dorothy West, inner guard; Lucille Newman, outer guard; and Katherine Kirker, Eloise Lewis, Barbara Nye, Elva Welch and Lucille Tanner, messengers.

Katherine Houseworth was installing officer, Esther Canfield, installing guide; Hazel Smalley, installing marshal; Mathilda Blankmeier, installing chaplain; Virginia Robeson, installing recorder, and Mildred Gallagher, installing pianist.

Carolyn Terrill provided special piano numbers during the ceremony. Among the honor guests attending was Mrs. H. E. Ward, grand deputy officer of Job's Daughters.

Mrs. Esther Herlihy, guardian of the Bethel, served refreshments of punch during a dance.

Installation Of Ebell Club Heads Set for June 21

FULLERTON, June 17.—Mrs. A. H. T. Osborne, president-elect, and her new officers will be installed at the last meeting of the year of Fullerton Ebell club at the clubhouse next Friday.

Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake of Orange will be installing officer. Mrs. W. F. Kogler will sing. Hostesses in charge of the meeting are Mrs. Archibald Edwards, chairman; Mrs. Fred Fuller, Mrs. W. L. Hale, Mrs. W. E. Tripp, Mrs. E. L. Winn and Mrs. Sarah Roberts.

Hold Funeral Of Mrs Langworthy

FULLERTON, June 17.—Funeral services for Mrs. Florine Langworthy, 43, were held this morning from the McAulay and Suters funeral home. Mrs. Langworthy, who had resided in Fullerton for six years, and was a registered nurse, is survived by her husband, William H. Langworthy, and a son, Jack Langworthy, and by her mother and two brothers in Louisiana.

The Rev. E. Dow Hoffman of the Methodist church officiated. Cremation followed the ceremony.

to pay. The high bank rate in France—clapped on to check the flight of capital—precludes cheap borrowing.

BOOM

The flight of gold from France to England has not added to the Bank of England's metallic reserves. The British want no timid capital in their monetary base. It's too likely to leave as suddenly as it came and disrupt the nation's financial stability.

This policy makes England something less than the paradise for gold hoarders it has been pictured. There's a boom for safe deposit boxes in London because owners of the precious but sometimes embarrassing metal can't find anything to do with it but stow it away.

CANDIDATE

New Yorkers who know Governor Lehman say definitely that he would like to return to private life when his present term expires. He and his family are reported to be weary of politics.

But that doesn't necessarily mean that he won't be a candidate to succeed himself. Well-posted sources predict that FDR will ask him to make the race again in order to strengthen his own chances of carrying New York—and that Lehman will consider himself bound by his friend's wishes.

HEALTHY

Critics of the Securities Commission are astute about Joe Kennedy's statement that one of his biggest jobs is cleaning up the oil royalty racket. They point out that total oil royalty sales in the United States amount to ten million dollars a year at most—while security transactions run into billions.

Comment runs that if royalties represent the largest pile of dirt he can dig up the security business must be in unbelievably healthy and virtuous condition. The informed are convinced that the Commission's exceptional aggressiveness on the subject of oil royalties traces to inspiration from Secretary Ickes.

Ethel Bell Kuhns, H. H. Rodger Wed

FULLERTON, June 17.—Miss Ethel Bell Kuhns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Kuhns, was married Friday night at the home of her parents on West Malvern to Howard H. Rodger, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Peacock, of Fullerton. The Rev. E. E. Harring, chaplain of the Los Angeles General hospital and a friend of the Kuhns family, read the ceremony.

The bride was attended by the bridegroom's daughter, Frances Rodger, who served as ring bearer for the occasion. Joy Woods, of Pico, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Rodger left immediately after the ceremony for a honeymoon. She will resume her duties in the Tip-Bin-Ku school for children on East Commonwealth avenue when they return. He is employed in Kettelman Hills. A group of close friends and relatives attended the ceremony.

BOYS ENJOYING 12-DAY OUTING IN MOUNTAINS

FULLERTON, June 17.—Eighty Northern Orange county Y. M. C. A. boys left Saturday on a 12-day outing at Camp Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains. They were accompanied by 11 leaders and by Archie Raitt, district secretary, with Don Pierotto assisting him. The boys who went are Coleman Hickey, leader, Phillip Morris, Raymond Vanderberg, Kenneth Hixon, Paul Chamlee, Charles Canfield, Leonard Tanner and Ritchie Strickland, cabin one; Logan Wheatley, leader, and Rodney Hilbert, James Jones, Elwyn Harris, William Wickett, Charles Whitaker, Max Farran and John Herrman, cabin two; Don Pierotti, leader, and Harry Ebling, Harold Morris, Clayton Hudspeth, Bill Burnip, La Monte Schofield, Dick Schofield and Dorus Ball, cabin three.

John Raitt, leader, and Paul Thornton, Bruce Butler, Harold Horn, Clayton Rayburn, Cecil Kinney, Robert Plummer and Raymond Stone, cabin four; Forrest Taylor, leader, and Don Furdorf, Gerald Ellis, Elbert Hoffman, Lloyd Hains,

Last Rites For Mrs. C. M. Marvin Set for Tuesday

FULLERTON, June 17.—Christian Science services for Mrs. Isabelle B. Marvin, 45, who died Saturday at an Orange hospital, are to be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday from the McAulay and Suters funeral home. Mrs. Marvin, 45, had resided at 3601 West Flower street, Fuller cemetery.

CHURCH CONDUCTS UNIFIED SERVICE

FULLERTON, June 17.—The first unified church service in Fullerton was held Sunday at the Methodist church, opening at 9:30 a. m. when the church congregation and the Sunday school pupils met together.

A large crowd attended and heard the pastor, the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman, talk on "Father's Day." He stressed the need of a oneness of fellowship between father and son, as between God and His children.

The meeting opened with all classes except creche roll and kindergarten in the main auditorium. Following the children's sermon, the primary and junior department children left for their individual rooms, and the regular church service proceeded until 10:40, when it was dismissed for the Sunday school classes. All departments dismissed at 11:30 a. m.

Park, for 11 years, and is survived by her husband, Charles M. Marvin, and six children, and a sister, Mrs. Florence Smith of Compton, and her father, John R. Gardner. Interment will be at Loma Vista

REVEAL WRESTLERS 'ON OWN' WHEN THEY WORK HERE

Blue Monday is always "Guest Day" in a newspaper office, and this time it is no chump. Mr. Clinton is the front-runner for the Orange County Athletic club's wrestling circuit, and in the following communication reveals some data hitherto unsuspected. Clear the tracks for Clinton:

"Dear Friend Eddie: "Since wrestling's 'comeback' here last week under the promotional guidance of Sam Sampson, there has been more or less discussion as to the merits of wrestling and speculation as to how long fans will flock to the Orange County Athletic club to see the 'beeg strang' tallas' in action. "May I take the liberty to pass judgment? In other words, Eddie, offer my opinion, which may or may not mean a thing, but might straighten out one or two misunderstandings.

No Daro Cut Here "First of all, with my right hand raised, and my left hand on the book, Lou Daro is in no way connected, directly or indirectly with the promotion of wrestling here.

"True, Sampson is using the same men fans see at Daro's Olympic arena in Los Angeles and if it wasn't for Daro and the 10,000 seating capacity of the Los Angeles club in nearby cities would not be able to see these topnotchers.

"Originally these men came to the Coast to wrestle for Daro, who, I understand is 'cut in' at San Diego, Long Beach, San Bernardino and El Centro; but once here, these men can't keep busy wrestling entirely under the Daro promotion so step out independently and work at the smaller clubs. This with Daro's consent and that is the extent of the Daro hook-up here. To my knowledge he gets nothing out of the 'gate' and has nothing to do with the promotion in any manner, shape or form.

'SATCHEL' PAIGE, PITCHER, IS BLACK 'DIZZY' DEAN

NEW YORK, June 17.—Talk about your Dizzy Deans, Hubbells, Harders, Gomezes, and Blantons. Any baseball man will tell you that you oughta see LeRoy Paige. Paige is a gawky Negro under the management of Ray Doan, the Muscatine, Ia., promoter who has nearly as many ball players under contract as the far-flung St. Louis Cardinals system. Doan, among other things, annually sends two "House of David" outfits on the road, and operates a baseball school at Hot Springs, Ark. Under Doan's management, Grover Cleveland Alexander made more money in one season than he ever did in the majors.

Paige last season pitched for the Pittsburgh Crawfords, one of America's one-two-three Negro teams. Paige fogs the ball through there like the Jerome Herman Dean he so greatly admires. LeRoy—his waxy dog long since have him him the name of Satchel—perhaps the best known semi-professional pitcher in America.

How I would like to see him single with Dean, Hubbell, Harder, Gomez, or Blanton in a championship contest!

CHICKEN GIVES SPEED "Paige, now in the Dakotas trouncing the week-end, twilight, and archlight circuits, yields to no man in individuality or pitching ability. Satchel trains on fried chicken, hot cakes, and warm biscuits. "Dat fried food keeps me feelin' great," says Satch.

Paige buzzes the fast one like Barney Ross shoots a jab. Suddenly out of an elongated mass of arms and legs that is Satchel's windup comes the ball. It sizzles over the plate nipping the outside corner and the batter wonders just what happened.

Satch works every other day. It could be every day, if he had to. "Ah don't get tired. Day just like to see a different face in here, dat's why I takes a rest," is his explanation.

Paige is 29, and looks 21. He has long, sinewy arms that seem to drop to his knees. He always would whip a baseball with that lean right arm, even back in New Mexico, where he grew up and learned to play.

Satch for the last several years has been with the Pittsburgh Crawfords, a colored club owned by Gus (Great Gus) Greenlee, which plays in its own park in the Smoky City. It is a model plant and the team has a big following, which has come to regard Satchel as a sort of deity.

When he announced he was off to the Black Hills or some place for his northwestern adventure, a deeper pall than ever hung over the section of Pittsburgh known as the Hill.

UPSTART LOOMS AS RIVAL "On the Pacific Coast there he beat big league pitchers without drawing a second breath. About the only colored pitcher who could stand up with Satchel was Stuart (Slim) Jones, the beanpole of the Philadelphia Stars, the Negro National league champion last year. Jones is just as big, just as nonchalant, just as fast, and only slightly less experienced than the Satchel.

Last summer at the Yankee stadium they locked horns. Nine innings they scrapped to a 1-1 tie in as well-pitched a game as you ever saw.

Jones is only 20 and coming up faster than Wiley Post on a stratosphere flight, so he may be the Satchel Paige of the next two or three years. Maybe he will. But he has important handicaps. Jones doesn't lap up fried food, he takes care of himself, and he has a deep variety of modesty. That's likely to cost him success in the Satchel Paige-Dizzy Dean league.

WINKLER SINKS 40-FOOT PUTT, WINS ON 19TH

A 40-foot putt on the nineteenth green by R. O. Winkler, giving he and A. W. Griffith a thrilling victory over Milt Johnson and Howard Rapp, had all the high-low handicap tournament golfers talking today at the Santa Ana Country club.

The long, curling shot ended a spectacular rally which had brought Johnson and Rapp from certain defeat to possible victory. They were four down with five to go and evened the match on the eighteenth, but Winkler's remarkable putt eliminated them from the championship flight.

Third round matches are scheduled this week. Pairings and last week's results:

Robert Korff and E. R. Byrne (defeated L. D. Coffing and B. W. McDonald) 3-2; W. W. Taylor and F. C. Farnsworth (d. Paul Hall and E. H. Guthrie, one up, 13 holes); C. F. Patton and J. K. McDonald (d. R. Steffen and L. Steffen, 3 and 2); B. R. Manker and Ward Akley (d. Dr. G. C. Ross and R. C. Holler, 3 and 2);

Don Kennedy and L. R. Kennedy (d. D. E. Liggett and A. May, 3 and 2); W. W. Griffith and R. O. Winkler (d. H. B. Rapp and M. E. Johnson, one up, 13 holes); J. R. Gardner and H. L. Miller (d. G. A. COAST LEAGUE STARTS SECOND HALF TUESDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—(UP)—Pacific Coast league managers voted for a split season, with the second-half starting Tuesday, in order to produce a closer race for the championship. Hyland Baggerly, president of the league, explained today.

Economy reasons dictated the return to the seven-game series each week, eliminating the split-week program of two series, he said.

"As I see it the attendance and financial troubles of the league in recent seasons have been due to the fact that there was no sort of race," the president, a former newspaper writer, said.

"Los Angeles was simply too strong. Now several of the teams have shown new strength and should be able to make a better showing."

Among the teams to whom Baggerly and other baseball followers look to give Los Angeles, winners of the title in 1933, 1934 and the first-half of 1935, a run and the San Francisco Seals, the Sacramento Senators and Oakland. The Seals, who climbed from fourth to a tie for second in the last two weeks, offer the greatest threat to Los Angeles' supremacy.

ROADSIDE IN RECORD DASH AT DOG TRACK

Another record fell at the Orange County Kennel club's track Sunday when Roadside, a speedy bound from H. Bolen 'stable' of San Bernardino, negotiated the 514-yard Futurity distance in 30.3.

This lowered the old mark, held by California Flash, by a tenth of a second.

Roadside set his mark in a match race with Suspicious Virginia of the H. Bolen kennels of Artesia. Roadside won by seven lengths.

A Warren's Radio Mike, a four-year-old, was badly shaken up in the seventh race when he was crowded against the fence, and knocked unconscious. Officials said today, however, that the dog was not permanently injured.

The results:

1st Race, Futurity, 514 yards—Won by Golden Honor, Conjovia H. S., second; Alvin S., third. Time, 31 sec.

2nd Race, Futurity, 514 yards—Won by Blue Streak; Midnight Play, second; Cal Coon, third. Time, 31.3 sec.

3rd Race, Futurity, 514 yards—Won by Firebrand; Dashing Officer, second; Headlines, third. Time, 31 sec.

4th Race, Futurity, 514 yards—Won by George's Officer; Spicy Patrol, second; Hazardous Vain, third. Time, 31.4 sec.

5th Race, 3-16 Mile—Won by Brass Buckle; Wild Cloud, second; Clipper, third. Time, 19.3 sec.

6th Race, 3-16 Mile—Won by Chamber Maid; Lights Out, second; Shadow Man, third. Time, 20 sec.

7th Race, Futurity, 514 yards—Won by California Queen; Great Mutt, second; Tap Dancer, third. Time, 31.1 sec.

8th Race, 3-16 Mile—Won by Ben Edwar; Little Lee, second; Lady Midge, third. Time, 19.4 sec.

9th Race, 3-16 Mile—Won by Midnight Traffic; Mayor Girl, second; Special Match Race, Won by Roadside over Suspicious Virginia by 7 lengths. Distance, futurity. Time, 30.3. (New track record.)

FEUD BETWEEN BROWNING AND SZABO REVIVED

A powerful young athlete—Sandor Szabo, 220-pound Hungarian Adonis—whose rapid rise to wrestling stardom has been nothing short of meteoric, faces a former champion and a master of balance and leverage, Jim Browning, tonight in the second all-star heavyweight wrestling program billed by Promoter Sam Sampson at the Orange County Athletic club.

Little more than a year ago Browning almost crushed the title aspirations of the handsome Szabo when he hooked the latter with his celebrated "airplane scissors" and battered him to the mat like a cat would shake a rat.

They met in New York before a crowd that paid $18,000 to watch the battle. The "gate" here isn't expected to exceed $1000 at the most.

Szabo Greatly Improved "Not only will there be a vast difference in the 'gate' but there will be a vast difference in the status of the principals. Browning held the world title when he defeated Szabo. Now he is an ex-champion. Szabo, fresh from Europe, lacked experience when he first tangled with Browning. Tonight, more than a year later, he is a vastly improved wrestler and has added experience, weight and many holds to his natural assets.

Szabo's best hold, the headlock, has been used to a good advantage by the Hungarian in his dizzy climb to the top of the wrestling heap. He also has mastered a counter-hold and defense for Browning's "airplane scissors," which may force the old master to resort to other means and maneuvers.

Szabo meets "Man Mountain" Dean at the Olympic Wednesday night in one of the final matches for the "international" championship.

TAFRO MEETS ERNIE DUSEK

Wild and woolly should be the Ernie Dusek-Al Tafro one-hour semi-final. Dusek is known from coast to coast as the wildest of heavyweights. His slugging, vicious tactics not only make him an arch villain, but have done much to bring the crowd howling down upon him in various wrestling centers.

Tafro, a youngster, with the ear marks of a coming star, replaces the veteran Paul Jones against the fighting Dusek.

Casey Columbo, a flying tackler, draws Ev Kibbons, the Oklahoma cowboy-wrestler, in the special event while the opener shows the rough Italian, Tony Felice, and Luis Mayo, Mexican champion.

The first bout is scheduled to start at 8:30 with the doors opening one hour earlier in order to accommodate the anticipated capacity attendance.

GARDEN GROVE BAGS SLUGFEST AT BEACH

Garden Grove decided Newport Beach, 12-9, in a free-hitting Inter-city league baseball game at Newport Heights Sunday. The Broncos clinched a victory with a two-run outburst in the ninth when Starkey hit a homer.

Newport Beach made a bid in its half of the ninth, too, but McDonald stopped the rally after two runs.

WESTERN OPEN WIN NETS REVOLTA $500

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 17.—(UP)—Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, who always plays his best when money is at stake, added $500 to his bank account today after winning the thirty-sixth annual Western Open golf tournament.

The 24-year-old professional battled wind, rain and a broiling sun for three days to complete the 72 holes with 290, six over par. He shot a 70 in the second round to take the lead with 144. He remained ahead then by putting together two 73's Sunday.

In second place was Willie Goggin, San Francisco, with 294. Byron Nelson, 23-year-old professional from Ridgewood, N. J., who shattered par by four strokes on his first nine holes in the tournament, finished third with 296.

Dick Mick, Chicago, professional at the Hill Road Country club, and Jimmy Thomson, Long Beach, Calif., pro, tied for fourth with 298. The prize for fourth was $150.

7:30—Union Oil vs. M. E. South Juniors; 8:30—Elks vs. 20-30 Club.

Beginning a snappy playoff series for the Santa Ana City league's first-half championship, the Elks and 20-30 club baseball clubs collide again tonight in the Municipal Bowl at 8:30.

The conflict will be a genuine titanic affair should the South Methodist church seniors defeat the Union Oil company in a 7:30 preliminary, a game which formally completes the regular first-half schedule. If the Elks win, however, they'll go into a triple tie and qualify for a final championship brush in the Bowl Thursday with the winner of the Elks-club match.

When the Elks and 20-30's hooked up a week ago Thursday, the clubmen won by a 7-4 margin. They'll have their lineup intact, with Joe Cornelius hurling and J. Scott receiving; Jefferson, Patmor, D. Scott and Walker around the infield, and Mitchell, Lutz and McVain in the outfield.

The Elks will be strengthened by the return of First Baseman Wayne Lovelock. Elwood Lindley will pitch and Manuel Salcido catch. Schwarm will be at second base, Levens third and Ojeda short. Herman, Kneup and Hanson start in the gardens.

The Union Oil-South Methodist tussle is expected to result in an easy win for the Oilers as Manager Larry Cannon, taking no chance of an upset, proposes to pitch Lloyd Lichtenwalter, his ace.

Justice Kenneth Morrison, president of the City league, said today that no official second-half schedule has been released. There is a strong possibility that the City league will enlarge to an eight-team unit for the second half which starts a week from tonight. The Santa Ana captains' union has filed an application for a franchise, he said.

SANTA ANITA BEATS RACE LEADERS, 5-1

Santa Anita's ball team tossed a monkey wrench into the titular hopes of the Thornton Used Cars team yesterday by trimming the Inter-City league leaders, 5 to 1.

A three-run rally in the eighth decided the contest. Joe Korral led off with his fourth successive hit, a double. Conrad was safe on fielder's choice. "Bombo" Korral tripled both home, and scored himself on an outfield fly.

UPSTART LOOMS AS RIVAL "On the Pacific Coast there he beat big league pitchers without drawing a second breath. About the only colored pitcher who could stand up with Satchel was Stuart (Slim) Jones, the beanpole of the Philadelphia Stars, the Negro National league champion last year. Jones is just as big, just as nonchalant, just as fast, and only slightly less experienced than the Satchel.

Last summer at the Yankee stadium they locked horns. Nine innings they scrapped to a 1-1 tie in as well-pitched a game as you ever saw.

PENSION CLUB FUNDS STOLEN IN BURGLARY

A burglar who broke into the home of Paul Andres, 1017 North Van Ness street yesterday morning, while members of the family were at church, looted a desk and escaped with $125 in cash, property of the Townsend Old Age Pension Club No. 3, of which he was financial secretary.

The thief cut a screen over a rear door to gain entrance to the house, later leaving by the front door. He ransacked several rooms, throwing papers, bed covers and furniture into the middle of the floor before finding the money which had been secured in small sugar sacks and glass jars in an old desk in the front room of the home, which Andres uses as an office.

Most of the money taken was in small coins, according to C. W. Wolford, of the police department, who is making an investigation.

TUSTIN

TUSTIN, June 17.—Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Gillespie and daughter, Helen, of Main street, have left by motor on a two-months' vacation trip. They will travel east through Arizona, Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee. They will make stops at Washington, D. C., New York City, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Mich., and Chicago, Ill. They plan to visit with relatives and friends in Omaha, Neb., on the return trip. Miss Helen Gillespie was a member of this year's graduating class of Tustin Union High school.

NEW PLANNING ORDINANCE TO PASS TONIGHT

Final reading of a new city ordinance governing the appointment of members of the city planning commission, is expected to be passed by the city council at its regular meeting tonight.

The new ordinance will call for the appointment of six members, three of which will be the city engineer, the chief of the fire department and the mayor. Two will be appointed for one year, two for two years, one for three years and for four years, according to the new plan.

When these have served their terms, their successors then will be appointed for four year terms, according to the wording of the ordinance.

Members of the planning commission will complete their present terms on July 1, of this year. Members of the forestry board, which have been appointed by the planning commission, with the city council's approval, in the future likely will be appointed by the council itself, it was said, when it was learned that a new ordinance also would be drawn concerning the forestry board. This same rule will apply to the city library board, now functioning under the city council and several changes in this board are scheduled for July 1, it is rumored.

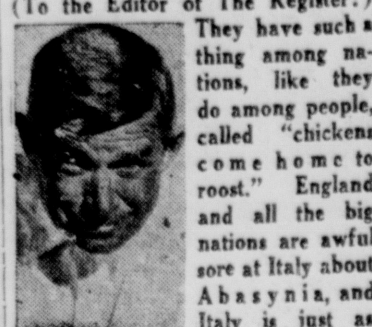

The council tonight also is scheduled to give final reading to an ordinance governing sound making devices used by stores here for advertising purposes. First reading was given June 3.

Bids for the purchase of a new fire truck chassis, limited to $750, are scheduled to be opened at tonight's meeting.

It is foolish and dangerous for a driver, motoring in a mountainous region, to depend entirely on his brakes while traveling down grade.

Will Rogers Says:

SANTA MONICA, June 17.—(To the Editor of The Register:)

They have such a thing among nations, like they do among people, called "chickens come home to roost." England and all the big nations are awful sore at Italy about Abyssinia, and Italy is just as wrong as she can be, but all these others have gobbled up something at some time, and Mussolini reminds 'em of it, and that makes 'em sorer than ever. Reading history has put all these ideas in Japan's head. Us giving back the Philippines may ease our conscience a little. It almost pays a nation to remain small and point with pride that they haven't gobbled up anything.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

SOCIETY EDITOR IS OPERATED ON TODAY

An emergency operation was performed on Eleanor Elliott, society editor of The Register, this afternoon.

Mrs. Elliott, who was discharged from the hospital several weeks ago, following a major operation, was believed well on the road to recovery and had been attending to her duties daily at The Register. Last week she was taken ill and went home to bed.

Her condition last night was reported as satisfactory, but this morning a relapse set in and she was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where attending surgeons decided upon an immediate operation.

FIGHTER ARRESTED ON DRIVING COUNT

Jess Macias, one-time "Wildman" of Santa Ana's fistie circles, was arrested at 12:45 a. m. today by members of the California Highway Patrol, and charged with failure to make a boulevard stop and driving on the wrong side of the road.

State police took him to the county jail for identification, but he was not booked. Macias selected a poor time for failure to make the stop, officers said, the "Wildman's" car also colliding with the police car. Officers in the car were forced to turn to the sidewalk to avoid collision, they reported.

Macias has been ordered into Justice Kenneth Morrison's court on June 24, to answer to the charges.

Court Notes

George W. Ring has brought suit in the superior court against the Ring Petroleum company and other defendants to quiet title to two lots at Huntington Beach, as against an oil lease held by the defendant company.

F. C. Muller is plaintiff in a superior court suit on file against J. A. Wright, asking judgment for $794.50, alleged to be due on a note.

The Santa Ana Mortgage and Investment company has filed suit against George F. Haynes and others in superior court, to foreclose a mortgage of $2500 against property at Laguna Beach.

W. C. Fletcher and Juanita Fletcher were plaintiffs today in a superior court action against Mr. and Mrs. Roy Russell, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mook and others, to foreclose a $1500 mortgage against Santa Ana property.

A. Genereux asks judgment for $1452, alleged to be due on a note, in a suit just filed in superior court against Mabel McGee.

MODERNIZATION UP TO $50,000 NOW PROVIDED

Newly revised regulations covering modernization of business, commercial, and manufacturing buildings and other structures up to $50,000, received here by James H. Berry, Federal Housing Administration official, indicate a vast new market which will benefit practically all industry, it was learned today.

The new rules govern extension of modernization credit by financial institutions for improvement of many classes of properties under the $50,000 provision of the amended act, and will be indirect benefit to the nation as a whole and in re-employment, according to Stewart McDonald, Acting Federal Housing Administrator.

The regulations governing modernization credit for improvement of individual homes, farm properties, churches, clubs, public buildings and similar properties remain substantially the same. The maximum limit for each such property is fixed under provisions of the Act at $2000. This type of credit is being handled as a separate class and is being extended for the purpose of making additions, alterations, repairs and improvement of real property, including also such new construction as garages and certain other similar structures.

The class of modernization credit made possible by the $50,000 amendment also is being handled separately. This type of credit is extended for additions, alterations, repairs and improvement for "real property improved by or to be converted into apartment or multiple family houses, hotels, office or other commercial buildings, hospitals, orphanages, colleges, schools, or manufacturing or industrial plants." The maximum limit for each property is $50,000.

Four-wheel brakes now stop a car in half the distance required at the time they first came into general use.

BOOSTER BODY OFFERS AID TO COUNTY GROUP

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce will appoint a committee to co-operate with other similar organizations in the county in the drafting of a new set of by-laws for the Orange County Associated Chambers of Commerce, it was decided at the local directors' meeting early this afternoon at James cafe.

President William H. Spurgeon of the chamber was authorized to appoint such a committee upon motion of Director W. E. Baker, following reading of a letter from George Kellogg of Yorba Linda, president of the Associated, relating to Santa Ana's recent withdrawal from that organization.

The Santa Ana chamber had withdrawn from the county body as a protest against action of the Associated in passing resolutions and other actions binding upon the member organizations without referring them back to the member groups for approval.

While the Santa Ana directors today did not rescind their former action as requested by Kellogg, it was decided to co-operate with the neighboring chambers in working out the problem and bringing the Associated by-laws up to date.

H. P. Rankin reported at today's meeting upon the school of government at Los Angeles, and said the program is one of great benefit to public officials and civic bodies.

A survey of the chamber's insurance needs was suggested, and will probably be carried out in the near future.

Mrs. Zilda E. Oxart reported in detail on progress of the Orange County Better Housing program, and Ed Hall, chairman of the publicity, promotion, and convention committee reported on activities of this group, including tentative plans for a complimentary circular citrus tour of the county for Exposition visitors, to include visits to citrus packing houses while in action and a possible stop at the San Juan Capistrano mission.

Use of a daily period over radio station KREG is contemplated by the committee. Chairman Hall reported, and also reported on the success of the recent Santa Ana

LOSS IN APARTMENT FIRE SET AT $2500

Fire, starting in the attic of the apartment house owned by Joseph L. Marshall, Santa Clara street, at 423 East First street, at 7:30 p. m., Saturday, damaged the building and contents to the extent of $2500, the fire department reported today.

An investigation was under way today to determine the cause of the blaze, discovered by a passer-by who saw smoke coming from one of the eaves of the house. A number of people were in the building at the time.

Firemen worked for two hours before bringing the blaze under control. Damage to the house was estimated at $2000, and $500 damage was reported to the contents.

TOWNSEND CLUBS

Club No. 8 will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the Lincoln school. Entertainment will be furnished by Club No. 11.

Club No. 6 will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Christian church community hall, when important matters will be considered, it was announced today.

Club No. 5 will meet at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Richmond Avenue M. E. church, Richmond and Parton streets. F. L. Carrier will be the speaker and important business matters will come up, it was announced.

Club No. 10 will hold its regular meeting and program this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Free Methodist church, corner of Fruit and Minter streets, it was announced today.

Townsend Club No. 12, Santa Ana Gardens, will hold a box supper tomorrow evening, and all neighboring clubs and visitors are invited to bring boxes and attend, it was announced today. The gathering will be held in the community building at the Diamond school, West Edinger street.

Day program at Rancho Santa Ana attended by 400, and the Universal news reel prepared of the miniature railroad train near Irvine park.

Members of Hall's committee included Vic Walker, Claude Knox, R. C. Raddant, Bob Hockaday, L. A. Dickey, Ray Goodcell, Ernest Spencer, P. F. Colanich, Kenneth Adams, and Roch Bradshaw.

Police Charge Man With Non-Support

Albert Cummings, 41, laborer, of 617 1/2 Garfield street, was lodged in the county jail this morning, charged with failure to provide for minor children.

He was arrested for San Diego authorities, who sent a warrant here for his arrest through the sheriff's office. Officers Ragan and Humiston made the arrest.

Cummings' wife is at Escondido, and he probably will be taken there today for a hearing, before Judge W. N. Bradbury.

UNIFORM CLOSING HOURS ARE SOUGHT

Seeking uniform closing hours for Santa Ana business firms following collapse of NRA regulations, a joint meeting of the Santa Ana Businessmen's Association and the Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerce will be held tomorrow evening, it was announced today.

The meeting will be held at the the Businessmen's Association headquarters in the Builders Exchange building, it was announced, and is called for 7:30 o'clock.

VEGETABLE GROWERS PLAN TO ORGANIZE

Organization of Orange county vegetable growers into a co-operative marketing association will be discussed, and action may be taken, at a meeting of vegetable growers Thursday night at the Orange County Farm bureau office, according to announcement today.

At the Thursday night meeting, which starts at 7:30 o'clock, a report will be given by the temporary board of directors of the vegetable department of the Farm Bureau, covering its investigation of the proposal to form the co-operative vegetable association.

The meeting is open to all vegetable growers of the county, according to Clarence Brown, chairman of the board, and it is desired that there be a full attendance in order that the sentiment of growers may be ascertained regarding the proposed association.

SON PROTECTED BY FATHER IN FIGHT

Following a fight which took place at Central and Halliday streets at 1 a. m. today, Joe Franko, Santa Ana, was taken to the Orange county hospital for treatment for injuries to his skull, received when he was asserted to have been struck with a rock, thrown by Albert Solis, sometime during the encounter.

Police reported that Franko and Salvador Solis were scuffling when Albert, father of Salvador, hurled the rock. Franko was knocked unconscious, but is not in a serious condition. No arrests have as yet been made, but Franko is expected to sign a complaint against the elder Solis today.

Guests at Party Learn Of Local Couple's Engagement

Mrs. F. Ray Fraser was hostess last week in her home, 525 Grand avenue, entertaining to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Velda Fraser, to J. Ellis Drake.

Tables, daintily appointed in pink and blue, were set in rooms bright with bouquets of gladioli. Marking the place of each guest was a corsage cluster of Cecil Brunner roses tied with a blue ribbon. Tiny envelopes held cards bearing the phrase, "Velda, Ellis, June 19." Dessert was served early in the afternoon.

Prizes for card play were won by Miss Eunice Bright, scoring high; Mrs. Woodrow Barnett, second high; and Mrs. Frank Baker, low. Mrs. Fraser was assisted in entertaining by her two daughters, Miss Vivian Fraser and Miss Evelyn Fraser.

Those present with the bride-elect were Misses Dorothy Bent of Orange, Eunice Bright, Ladye Barnes, La Dora Catherman, Frances Miller, Evelyn Fraser, Vivian Fraser of Santa Ana, Mesdames W. B. Bean of Hollywood, Ray Milbrat, Theola Baker, Walter Broomell, Allen Howell, Marquis Hare, Woodrow Barnett, Norman Walker, Norman McClay, Robert Prior and the hostess, Mrs. F. Ray Fraser, all of Santa Ana.

Outdoor Festival to Be Given Tomorrow

An outdoor festival at Bowers' museum, on the calendar for tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when all pupils of the Visel studios will take part in an annual program. Arranged by Miss June Arnold, "The Sleeping Princess in the Wood" will be presented under the direction of Miss Arnold and Holly Lash Visel.

Poets and other southland artists are contributing to the program, and will be on hand to take special part in events of the afternoon. Miss Beulah May of this city will be honor guest of the day, and some of her poetry will be read by Miss Betty Jane Moore, who played the leading role in the recent Polytechnic High school senior play.

Poetry to be given by "The Fairy Band" and "The Imp Band" is the work of Ethel Eames MacCurdy and Elizabeth Foote, both of Santa Ana. Joy Leech Downett, who has been with the Denishawn Concert dancers, has arranged the dances.

Cranston Stroup, who for the past two years has won first place in the original poetry division of the Festival of Fine Arts contest at Los Angeles, will have his poetry read by Miss Jeannette Bodman of Newport Beach.

Miss Hazel Nell Bemus has designed all of the costumes to be worn by the young people. The program will be open to the public.

Drill Team Gives Dessert Bridge Party

American Legion Auxiliary drill team entertained with a benefit card party yesterday afternoon in Veterans hall, where many flowers were used in decorating.

Mrs. Adelaide Lowe won an angel food cake as a special prize of the day.

Mrs. Fred Haiber, general chairman, and Mrs. Warren McCarty, as refreshments chairman, were assisted by Mesdames A. J. Anderson, George Sullivan and Ira Mercier. Dessert was served to precede card play.

TAYLOR-POPE RITES TAKE PLACE IN TUSTIN CHURCH

Bridal costumes and appointments in delicate shades of blue and mauve contributed to the beauty of the wedding ceremony which yesterday afternoon united in marriage Miss Virginia Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Pope of Santa Ana, and Philip Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio, son of Fred Taylor of Los Angeles, formerly of Santa Ana.

First Presbyterian church of Tustin was setting for the ceremony, read at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Louis Osterstag. Baskets of blue lilies were arranged at the altar, where tall white tapers gleamed against a background of palms.

Organ music was played by James Dietrich, musician for the cartoon department at Universal studios, where the bride has been engaged as an artist for the past three years. Numbers played were "The Wedding March" from Lohengrin (Wagner) and selections from Mendelssohn.

Mr. Pope gave his daughter in marriage. She wore ice blue satin of classic design with a matching bridal veil, and carried a sheaf of Easter lilies. Her mother's wedding handkerchief was carried as the "something borrowed." The handsome gold circlet which the bridegroom placed on her finger during the ceremony was fashioned of the two old gold bands which had been the wedding rings of the bride's grandmother and great-grandmother.

Mrs. Roy Grist (Phyllis Pope) as matron of honor, wore a fuscia net dress over blue taffeta, with a shower bouquet of tiny pink roses. Frocks of the other attendants, Mrs. Fred Avery of North Hollywood, Mrs. Merle Gilson of Hollywood and Mrs. Ernest Martin of San Francisco, were of mauve chiffon shading to deep violet, and were worn over pink taffeta slips. Old-fashioned nosegays of violets completed the costumes.

Ernest Martin was best man. The bridegroom's uncle, Arthur Collins, and the bride's brothers, Frank and Paul Pope, were ushers.

Seventy guests attended a reception held in the Pope home, 1067 West Eighth street, where all decorations were in white. Cousins of the bride, the Misses Marjorie, Geraldine and Joan Bray, assisted in serving light punch with cakes including an elaborately decorated wedding confection. The bride tossed her bouquet, which was caught by Miss Esther Ruth of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Pope wore a formal afternoon gown of grey crepe with a corsage cluster of pink sweet peas and canellas.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Taylor donned a navy blue sheer frock with a taffeta jacket and a tiny pill box hat with matching veil. The newly married couple are enjoying a southern honeymoon, spending some time at the Exposition in San Diego. They plan to return to Santa Ana for a visit with relatives and friends before going to Cleveland, Ohio to make their home. They will stop at San Francisco and Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Taylor, a graduate of Santa Ana High school and of U. C. L. A., has a fellowship as assistant director of the observatory at Case School of Science in Cleveland, where he is studying for his Master's degree. Mrs. Taylor attended Chautauque School of Art following graduation from Polytechnic High school.

Among the guests present for the wedding were the bridegroom's father and an aunt, Fred Taylor of Los Angeles and Mrs. Albert Marker of Downey.

Chapel is Setting for Gordon-Gerrard Wedding

Miss Thelma Gerrard, daughter of Hugh Gerrard, 2009 Victoria Drive, and Winthrop Gordon of Los Angeles, son of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gordon of Woodbridge, Conn. were married Sunday afternoon, June 15 at Voorhes chapel in the foot hills near San Dimas.

The bridegroom's father, the Rev. Mr. Gordon was officiating minister. He and Mrs. Gordon arrived in the southland by boat shortly before the wedding. Relatives and close friends of the bride couple were present for the ceremony.

Mr. Gordon is an attorney in Los Angeles. He and his bride expect to establish their home in Eagle Rock. The new Mrs. Gordon has just completed her term of teaching in the kindergarten at Wilson school, Santa Ana.

Couple Exchange Vows Following Church Service

Sunday evening services at United Brethren church June 16 were followed by the wedding of one of the members, Miss Elizabeth L. Straw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Straw, 1424 West Second street, who became the bride of Shelby M. Watts of Long Beach, son of Mrs. Kate Watts of Ventura and Charles Watts of St. David, Ill.

Relatives and close friends of the couple had been invited to join the congregation for the occasion. Mrs. Harry Colby was at the organ, playing a group of selections which included Lohengrin's Wedding March.

Flowers were banked at the altar, which was lighted with many tall tapers. The Rev. Mr. T. W. Ringland, pastor, officiated.

The bride wore a white gown with a fur trimmed jacket and all accessories in white. Her corsage bouquet was of gardenias and yellow sweet peas. Miss Fritz Thornhill of Garden Grove was maid of honor, wearing a white suit with flowered jacket and a white hat. She wore a corsage cluster of orchid sweet peas.

Miss Phyllis Jiles of Santa Ana, flower girl, was attired in a peach-hued frock, carrying a decorated basket from which she scattered Cecil Brunner rosebuds. The bride's brother, Archie Straw of Los Angeles was best man.

Following a reception in the church, the new Mr. and Mrs. Watts went to Long Beach, where they will make their home. They plan a honeymoon trip to San Diego in the near future. Mr. Watts, who had his schooling at Peoria and St. David, Ill., is an oil worker employed at Signal Hill. His bride is a graduate of Polytechnic High school and of junior college.

Mrs. Kate Watts came south for the wedding. She was honored as a guest at a kitchen shower given last night when Miss Marie McGinnis was hostess in her home, 1315 South Ross street. Her mother, Mrs. Mary McGinnis assisted in entertaining. The Lecrain-Crawford wedding will take place July 1.

Hearts was the game of the evening, with prizes going to Miss Corinne Lecrain, first, and to the Misses Betty Niedergall and Lorine Shippe, who tied for second place.

All appointments for the event stressed a Dutch theme. Shower gifts for Miss Crawford were piled high in a miniature blue and white windmill. Refreshments of molded ice cream and cookies were served at tables centered with small windmills. Favors were wooden Dutch girls which had been fashioned by the hostess.

Present, in addition to Miss Crawford, the honoree, were Mrs. Mary McGinnis, the hostess, Miss McGinnis and the Misses Lucille Crawford, Corinne Lecrain, Peggy Tadlock, Charles Kite, Mary Louise Niedergall, Betty Niedergall, Lorine Shippe, Alberta Green, Helen Manderscheid, Martha Sharpley, Winifred Schneider.

Luncheon Compliments Visitor From Nebraska

Entertaining in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Olive D. Dooley of Omaha, Neb., Mrs. F. P. Nickey was hostess Friday at a prettily appointed luncheon given in her home, 519 Bush street. Spring flowers in an array of color which decorated the home for the occasion, were sent in and arranged by Mrs. Perry Lewis, Mrs. E. B. Trago and Mrs. Charles Bowler.

Cellophane covered candies, cleverly fashioned to represent bouquets of flowers, centered the small tables at which the luncheon was served.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon, with Mrs. Jessie White scoring high in contract, and Mrs. W. B. Martin, high in auction. The guest prize was presented to Mrs. Dooley.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Nickey were Mesdames Dooley, Maxwell Burke, C. P. Boyer, Albert Bowen, Charles Bowler, J. E. Gowen, J. A. Harvey, H. G. Huffman, Caleb Jackson, Charles Spioer, H. McKiever Smith, K. H. Sutherland, A. Thorndike, E. B. Trago, Theo. Winkler, H. B. Westover, Adam Zaiser, Perry E. Lewis, W. B. Martin, Frank H. Patterson, C. M. Rowland, W. D. Ranney and George Raymer.

Strawberries are with us so short a time, do let's have them at every possible meal. In browsing through a very old cook book I found this delicious version of a fruit cocktail:

Use very ripe berries, hull and slice them into the sherbet glasses, sugaring each layer. When the glasses are almost full, pour in orange juice to fill the glasses. Chill for two hours; just before serving put a little finely shaved ice over the top of each glass.

The same idea will serve as a dessert if the berries are topped with a spoonful of whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

Each day this week you will find here a tested recipe for making strawberry jam. Most of these recipes are from readers of this column.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Whole Berry Jam

5 cups of hulled strawberries

2 cups sugar boiled with

1/2 cup water to crackle stage

2 cups dry sugar, extra.

—Contributed.

Hull ripe berries, rinse and drain at least an hour. In meat-ing cook the first quantity of sugar with the water until it will make a hard crackle when dropped in cold water. Add the berries, all at once, and carefully sprinkle the extra two cups of sugar over top of berries. DO NOT STIR

from now on, but put back over a brisk fire, bring to a full rolling boil and boil at this pace for exactly 12 minutes. Let berries stand until cold before putting into clean hot jars and sealing them.

Before the Days of Paraffin

This is a relic of pioneer days,

a method women then used for sealing their jams and jellies, and one that never let a glass or jar collect mould: Cut brown paper

an inch larger than the top of jar; wet both sides in slightly beaten egg white, press into shape and tie firmly over top of jar.

Pineapple Sherbet

1 1/2 cups sugar

1 cup crushed pineapple

2 cups milk

1 cup coffee cream

Juice and grated rind of one

lemon

Combine sugar, pineapple and lemon juice. Add milk, mix well and set to freeze. When well frozen, beat in the coffee cream, whipped stiff and finish freezing.

This recipe makes a quart of delectable sherbet, enough to serve eight generously.

A serving of sherbet averaging

1/2 cupful has a caloric value of 275, chiefly made up of intensive energy foods found in sugar and cream.

Tuesday: Strawberry Conserve

and Ham Souffle.

ANN MEREDITH.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast

1/2 grapefruit

1/2 cup strawberries with

1/2 teaspoon sugar, no cream

or

A full glass of chilled tomato juice

Thin slice toast with

1 poached egg and

1/2 teaspoon butter

1 cup coffee with

1/2 cup hot skimmed milk, no

sugar.

Calory total, 270.

The grapefruit is the size that sells for a nickel. In comparison with the strawberries and sugar,

the calories total about the same.

For the tomato juice subtract 10

from the total.

For the family breakfast make the serving of toast and eggs

more generous, add jam and a choice of beverages to the diet

menu, and breakfast is served.

Strawberries are with us so short a time, do let's have them at every possible meal. In browsing through a very old cook book

RADIO NEWS OF Orange And Vicinity

TADPOLE, MOLLY BACK ON KREG THIS EVENING

"Tadpole and Molly," radio favorites of young and old alike, and key reason No. 6 why everyone should buy and use Orange county products will feature tonight's presentation by the Associated Chambers of Commerce on KREG at 6:45.

This series of broadcasts scheduled each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the same hour and presenting "Tadpole and Molly," short story dramatizations and "Adolph and Louie in Dutch" respectively, are publicizing the "Buy Orange County Products" campaign now being conducted in conjunction with a $100 cash prize contest. Prizes will be awarded for the best letters stating why everyone should buy and use Orange county products. Any resident of Orange county is eligible to enter the contest and there are no entrance fees, nor is any entrant required to buy anything.

Further details are given with each broadcast.

"PRETTY BOY" FLOYD BROADCAST SUBJECT

Activities of the gang of "Pretty Boy" Floyd, notorious gangster who was finally brought to earth by the guns of "G-Men," will be aired in tonight's broadcast of "Calling All Cars" from KREG at 7:30, a presentation of the Rio Grande Oil company.

Methods used by this gang of "super-criminals" in disposing of "hot bonds" in Los Angeles will form the main theme of tonight's true story dramatization which will reveal the high efficiency of the Los Angeles police department in capturing "Pretty Boy's" agents in that city.

Chief James E. Davis will take part in the broadcast with a brief discussion of the cooperative methods now used by local officers and the famed federal "G-Men."

KREG NOTES

"Philosophy and the New Age" is the topic of tomorrow's U. S. C. broadcast to be made by Dr. Wilbur H. Long, associate professor of philosophy at the University of Southern California, from KREG at 2:15 p. m.

Tonight's Ionizer health message will be broadcast from KREG at 7:15.

A medley of tunes from "Flying Down to Rio," "I'm Falling in Love with Someone" from Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," "I Want to Be Happy" from "No No Nanette" and "When Love Knocks at Your Door" will comprise tonight's medley menu on "Chevrolet Musical Moments," KREG at 7 o'clock.

Harry Bateson On Kreg This Evening

The first Monday night broadcast of the "Garden School of the Air" will be made from KREG tonight at 8:30 by Major Harry L. Bateson, F. R. H. S.

He is scheduled each Monday and Wednesday at the same hour, instead of Thursdays and Saturdays as before.

Despite the fact that the days of broadcasting were changed last Wednesday, an exceptionally large number of requests for zinnia seeds were received by Major Bateson in response to an announcement made at that time, from all parts of Orange county, proving that he has a large audience.

WESTERN PAIS IN KREG DEBUT

The "Western Pais," a new group of rhythm boys, will offer something new in the way of old tunes during their first program on KREG tonight at 6 o'clock.

Violin, guitar and bass fiddle form the nucleus of the instrumental combination but the manner in which these instruments are played is the outstanding feature of the program together with vocalizations.

Tunes to be offered tonight are "Four-Lep Clover," "Goofus," "Then It's Night Time in Nevada," "Five Foot Two—Eyes of Blue," "Drifting Back to Dreamland," "The West That We All Love" and others.

The trio includes Elmer "Shorty" Rums, Howard "Snakes" Rumsy and Ray "Bud" Isenberg, all of Santa Ana.

Telephoned requests will be accepted during the program from 6 to 8:30. They are tentatively scheduled each Monday and Thursday at the same hour.

THE TINYMITES

As old Van Winkle said, "Let's go, one of the wee gnomes shout- ed. 'Whoa! Before you start, let me explain that we'd best stay behind."

"We've had fun with you Tiny- mites, and seen a lot of real nice sights, but now we're going to bid you all goodbye, if you don't mind."

"Of course you mind," said Scouty. "Gee, you've been as nice as you could be, but if you've other things to do, we'll have to say farewell."

"I hope we meet again some day, and have more time to run and play." And so do we, a gnome replied. "We think that would be swell."

The whole bunch shook hands all around. Then Rip exclaimed, "We're homeward bound!" And off he and the Tinies went. The gnomes soon disappeared.

Said Rip, "I'm not exactly fit, 'cause sleeping made me ache a bit. I hope that shortly of my aches and pains I will be cleared." Soon Goldy shouted, "Oh, I see some chimney smoke. Gee, can- not it be that it is coming from your house?" "You're right, miss," Rip replied.

"No doubt, my wife is cooking, now, and if she doesn't start a row, perhaps we all will get some food when once we get inside."

Just then we Coppy shouted, "Hark! Some dogs are near. Just hear them bark. Here comes a bulldog and a Scotty. Look! A wire-hair, too."

"And there's a mongrel," Goldy said. "They're rushing for us, from ahead. I wonder just what ails them, and what they are going to do."

"Why, I have grown a beard, you see," said Rip, "and so they don't know me. Why, I have seen them all before. With them I used to play."

The dogs then raced around and 'round. Their barking made an awful sound. Wee Scouty waved his arms and loudly shout- ed, "Get away!"

Balboa Island Residents Propose New Sea Wall

COMMITTEE TO HOLD MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

NEWPORT BEACH, June 17.—First steps toward the construction of a sea wall around Balboa Island were taken at a public meeting held on the island Saturday evening. Residents of the island met at the Balboa Yacht club and formed an organization to work toward getting PWA funds for the improvement. Harry L. Parks, chairman of the city planning commission, was named chairman of the group and appointed a committee of 10 to bring in a tentative plan of action at the next meeting, scheduled for tomorrow night.

Estimated cost of the new wall is $125,000. Need for the construction was stressed at the meeting. It was pointed out that the present wall is patched and has collapsed in places. The idea of having hidden lights built into the new wall in order to beautify as well as protect the island, was advanced. It will be considered by the special committee.

The building of the wall was first proposed last week when city engineer R. L. Patterson suggested a list of proposed PWA projects to cover the next 10-year period to the city council.

The committee appointed by Parks to study the program of action is headed by Dr. Howard Seagar and is composed of Mrs. A. S. Richardson, Mrs. Harry Rider, Mrs. Gertrude Waldron, Donald Beach Kirby, J. B. Parks, Judge Granger Hiers, C. W. Rutter, John Legg and Anthony Hensley.

It will be necessary for the group to prepare detailed plans and specifications for the wall, secure the endorsement of island residents to the project and circulate petitions asking the city council to form an assessment district to carry out the improvement.

FLOWER MISSION DAY IS OBSERVED

TUSTIN, June 15.—Flower Mission day was observed by the Tustin W. C. T. U. Friday afternoon in the parlor of the First Presbyterian church, with Mrs. Sarah M. G. Brown, second vice president, presiding.

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller read a paper on "Our White Ribbon Badge" and Mrs. Cora Torrens gave a talk on the life of Jane Addams.

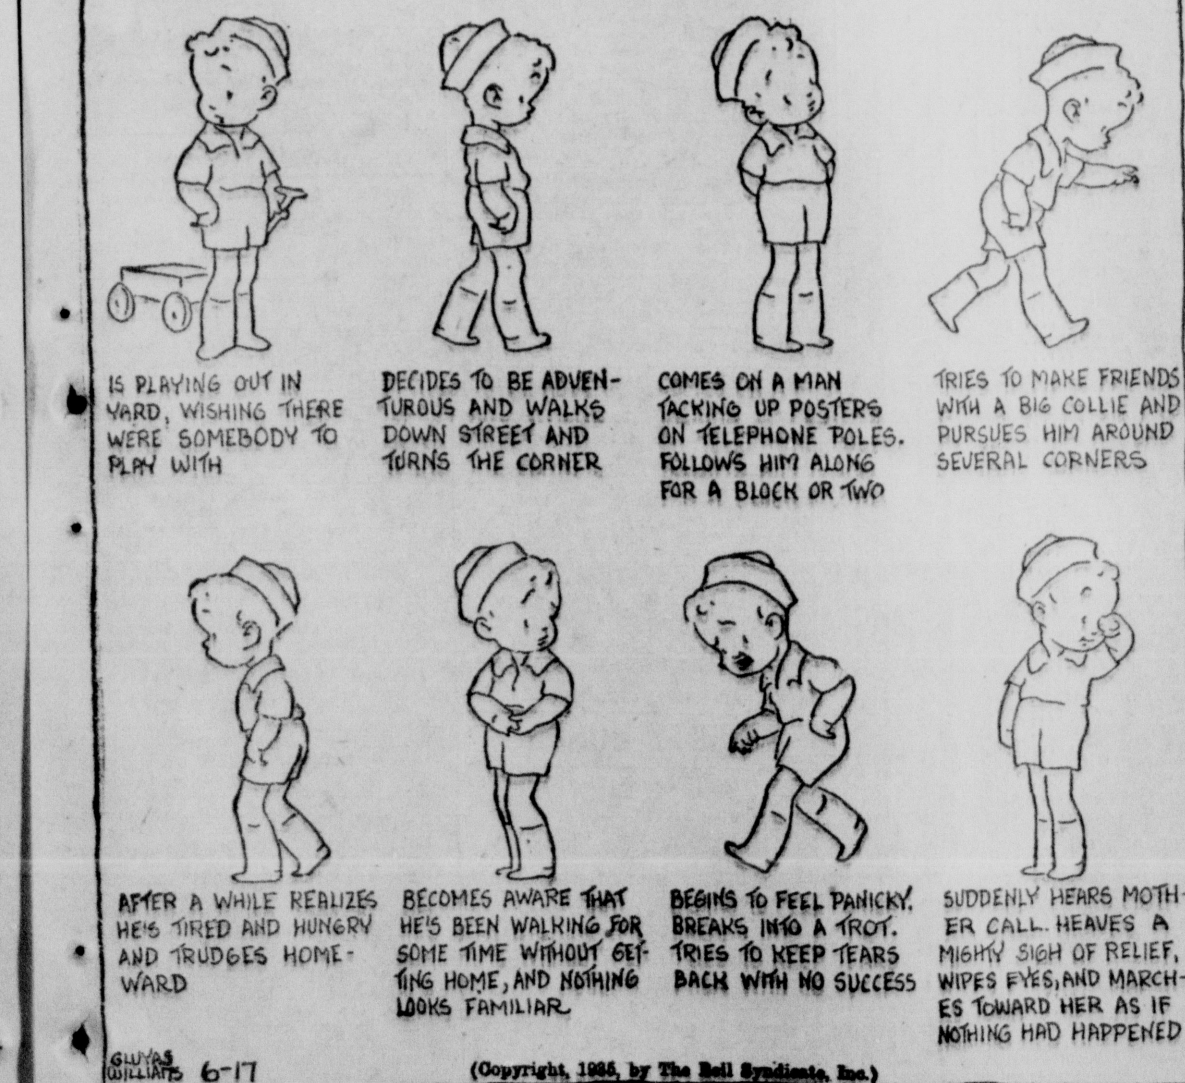

Plans were made to hold the annual picnic July 12 at Anaheim park, with a basket luncheon at noon. Mrs. Charles Whitney was appointed to have charge of table arrangements. Mrs. Margaret Utt, president, was voted a life member of the Southern California W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Brown announced National W. C. T. U. day at the San Diego exposition June 20 and urged as many members to attend as possible. Miss Melissa Montgomery conducted the devotional period.

Mrs. Charles Marshall sang "Near to the Heart of God," with Mrs. R. E. Carswell at the piano.

Those present were Mesdames Sarah M. G. Brown, Kate C. Boal, Elizabeth Miller, Cora Torrens, Mary Adamson, Curtis L. Greenwood, Charles Whitney, William A. Hazen, Charles Marshall, R. E. Carswell, Harry Hackelroad and Miss Melissa Montgomery.

ADVENTURE

Sailor, Boy Held On Auto Charges

SAN CLEMENTE, June 17.—Two stolen cars were recovered in San Clemente Friday by local police officers.

Tom Murphree Jr., chief of police, and Earl Moore picked up the first car, a Plymouth coupe, stolen in National City by a 14-year-old boy who was held in the San Clemente jail over night and turned over to the Juvenile authorities today. Ora F. Newton, San Diego, was the registered owner of the vehicle.

L. E. Hellett, 18, a sailor, who stated that he was attached to the Saratoga, was turned over to San Diego police following his arrest here by Officers M. J. Halloway and L. S. Moore. Hellett admitted having stolen the Buick sedan that he was driving, the officers said.

YACHT OWNED BY VIOLINIST REACHES PORT

NEWPORT BEACH, June 17.—The 60-foot yawl, "Galatea," recently purchased by Jascha Heifitz, world famous violinist who is vacationing here, arrived in Newport Harbor late yesterday. The craft was brought here from San Francisco, and arrived in the harbor with Heifitz, who boarded it outside the bar, in charge.

The boat was purchased by Heifitz through the South Coast Boat Building works operated by Walton Hubbard Jr., at a reported price of $11,000. The violinist also recently purchased an 18-foot Dodge sailboat through the Hubbard concern.

Heifitz has leased the home of Victor Fleming, motion picture director, on the bay front, and will spend the summer at Newport Beach.

FRIENDS GUESTS IN E. M. DOZIER HOME

GARDEN GROVE, June 17.—Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Dozier and son, Bob, entertained a group of friends on Friday evening at their home on West Chapman prior to their departure next Wednesday on a six weeks' vacation trip.

Miss Lulu Evans, of Orange, who recently returned from a month's sojourn in the Hawaiian islands, gave an interesting account of her trip while post card pictures were shown on a screen. The main feature of the evening was a lecture by Mr. Criswell, of Los Angeles, representative of the Alaska Steamship company, who showed several reels of moving pictures taken in Alaska. He was secured for the occasion by Julia Hyde, of Santa Ana.

The Doziers expect to leave by machine for Seattle, visiting friends en route and will sail from there for Alaska on June 23.

Guests present who expect to make the trip later in the summer were Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Wainwright and Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Phinney.

Refreshments of punch and wafers were served to 65 friends from different parts of the county, Long Beach, Los Angeles and a few visiting here from the east. The hosts were presented with a number of gifts appropriate for traveling.

ANAHEIM NEWS

PASTOR TALKS HELD TO ANSWER ON TO SENIORS OF ASSAULT CHARGES

ANAHEIM, June 17.—Heard before the Anaheim police judge Saturday morning, Paul Hernandez and Paul Acosta were held to answer to superior court on felony charges involving the use of a knife and a knife in an attack upon Domingo Mendoza a week ago. Bail was set at $2000 each, in default of which they were returned to the county jail.

The defendants claimed they both had a hold of the gun and it "went off accidentally," piercing Mendoza in the chest. Mendoza was present to testify. He claimed Hernandez was in possession of a knife with which he slashed the victim's head in several places. Acosta substantiated this testimony but Hernandez denied it.

Anaheim police describe the affair as "a drunken Mexican fight."

The class filled into the front rows of the open-air theater just as the sun was lowering behind a flower-bedecked platform. Dr. Harker, with the three other participating ministers, the Rev. T. H. Walker, who gave the invocation, the Rev. A. F. Ritchey, who gave the scripture reading, and the Rev. S. S. Schrader who gave the benediction, sat on the platform, against a solid screen of palms, ferns and flowers.

The high school orchestra played the processional and a mixed chorus of high school students sang a number from the platform.

Dr. Harker chose as his sermon subject "Life's Ideal" drawing on James 4:14 for his text. He showed by such examples as Jane Adams, the Earl of Shaftsbury and Pasteur that service means ultimate happiness and that it holds first place in the attitude of the people today for popularity.

"Do not destroy unless you can fulfill," he said. "Build your life of kindness, sharing, truth, charity, and fitness, and you will live most satisfactorily to yourself. It is only by keeping these qualities as an ideal that a Christ-like standard can be maintained, be declared, comparing life with a chain of links, on the last of which, the ideal, rests the strength of the whole."

FERN BOCK CALLED SURELY SATURDAY

ANAHEIM, June 17.—Miss Fern Bock, 31, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bock, who reside on Miller road southeast of Cypress, passed away very suddenly yesterday afternoon at the Anaheim Sanitarium. For some months she had not been in the best of health but the seriousness of her condition was not realized until several days ago. She was a native of Peoria, Illinois, but her folks moved to Anaheim, California 28 years ago.

She is survived by four sisters, Miss Ivy May Bock of Long Beach, Mrs. Robert Carter of Costa Mesa, Miss Barbara June Bock and Miss Dorothy Lea Bock, both at home; seven brothers, Henry, Thomas, David, August, Paul, James, Albert, and Robin Bock, all living at home.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 o'clock from the Hilgenfeld Funeral Home. She was a member of the Church of Christ in Anaheim and the Rev. Arthur F. Ritchey, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be made in the family plot in the Anaheim Cemetery.

Tourists who carry their equipment on the running board should take care that it does not protrude beyond the side of the car, as a crash with another car may result if this precaution is not taken.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

UPON FEET OF RAINFALL A YEAR FALLS ON ONE END OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLAND OF KAUAI—5 MILES AWAY IS A HOT, DRY DESERT.

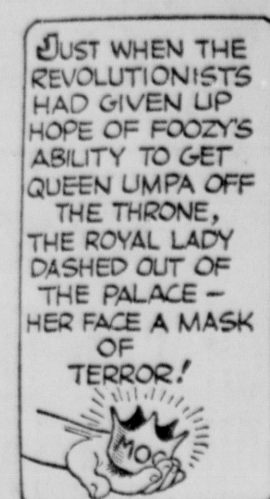

Tom Cribb first came into flistic prominence when in 1807 he stepped forward to claim the heavyweight title after Henry Pearce. Cribb fought One-eye Belcher, former champion, to a finish in 41 rounds—and fought battle after battle for the next four years, stopping all contenders—and in 1811 he suddenly ran out of opponents. In spite of the fact that he had a standing challenge to fight any man in the world, he went without a fight for 11 years and retired undefeated in 1822 when he was 41 years old.

Strange as it seems, hot and dry desert country is close neighbor to land drenched by some of the heaviest rain in the world. This strange, natural wonder takes place on the island of Kauai, in the Hawaiian group, where topographical and atmospheric conditions combine to drench one part of the island and parch another part five miles away.

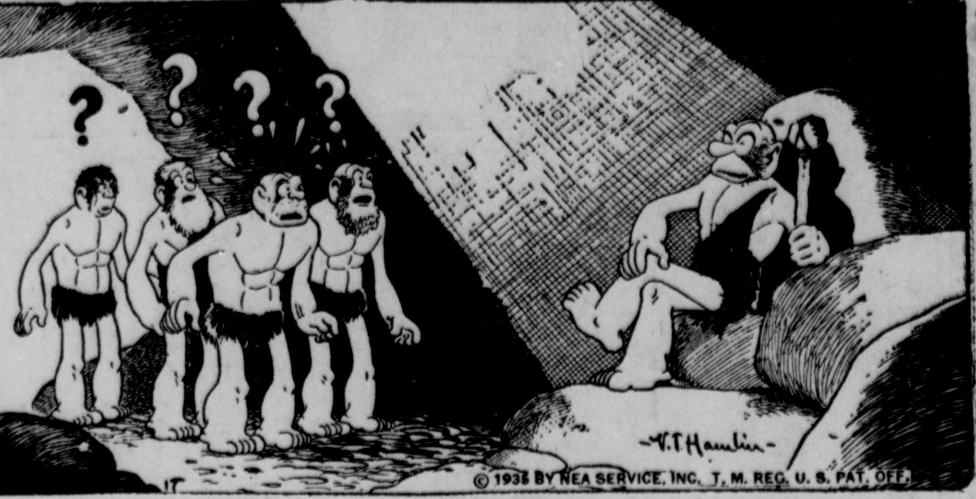

A high cliff faces the incoming trade winds, forces them upward, and causes them to precipitate their moisture. Here the rainfall is about 60 feet a year. On the other side of the slope the moistureless winds coast down and sweep across dry desert country.

Tomorrow: The boy politician.

DEPOSITORY OF A GOVERNOR BIDS SUBJECT TO SIGN FISH FOR BUILDERS PRESERVE BILL

Architects and structural engineers of this district were extended an invitation today to attend a meeting of the Orange County Building Contractors' association to be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the Green Cat cafe. It was announced by George A. Barrows, secretary of the contractors' group.

One of the most important matters to come up for discussion at the session tonight is the matter of the bid depository which was established in the chamber of commerce here before the NRA was declared unconstitutional.

Whether or not the contractors will continue the operation of the bid depository is a matter to be discussed. The depository was established as a place where contractors filed their bids on construction work. This was done in an effort to prevent "chiseling" by prospective builders, some of whom in the past have been alleged to have played the bids of one contractor against another in order to cut down the price on a construction job.

The meeting will start with a dinner.

HOOPER GIVES RECOVERY PLAN TO GRADUATES

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. June 17.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States, offered the youth of America today a nine-point plan of social securities as a formula for lifting the nation from depression.

Interlarding his remarks to the graduating class of his alma mater, Stanford university, with criticisms of the policies of the administration that succeeded him, Hoover stressed the place of "orderly liberty" and individual initiative in any program for restoring the nation to prosperity.

Particularly did he point out that "sudden inspiration of peace" would not accomplish universal social security.

Certain "constants" must be observed, he said. These he named as "sanctity of contracts which are not unconsconable, the stability of currency and credit, the maintenance of legitimate competition, government by specific laws, not by the uncertainties of administrative fiat."

In his nine-point plan, he named the following:

1. Individual freedom—"Freedom of men to worship, to think, to speak, to direct their energies, to develop their own talents, and to be rewarded for their effort."
2. The economy of plenty, not of scarcity—the capacity to produce plenty of goods and services.
3. Self government. "There never has been nor never will be freedom when the powers of government are lodged in a man or a group of men," he said.
4. Free initiative and free enterprise.
5. Stabilizing of the economic system to mitigate the effects of war, booms and depressions.
6. Strengthening of individual security beyond relief work.
7. Uplifting the minority who lag to the economic security of the majority, eliminating sweating and child labor, marginal farmers, slums, industrial conflicts, etc.
8. Wider spread property ownership.
9. Greater individual security through removing the fear of ruin, fear of poverty, fear of old age and dislocation.

"These are the standards and tests which may be applied to every social proposal made to you, the former president said."

MAN FISHING FROM PIER DROPS DEAD

George Rakestraw, 72, of 2930 East Third street, Long Beach, dropped dead at 10 a. m. today while fishing off the pier at Huntington Beach, the coroner's office announced.

An investigation was held and an inquest will be scheduled, according to Coroner Earl R. Abbey. Rakestraw is survived by his daughter, Wilfred, who was with him at the time. The body was taken to the Dixon Funeral home and will be sent to Long Beach today.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 17.—(UP)—Prices turned irregular on the New York stock exchange today and volume fell off to around a million shares for the session, while more attention was paid to bonds where prices rose as much as 2 points in the rail.

Principal activity in stocks centered on International Telephone and Telegraph stock which rose a point to equal its 1935 high at 9 1/2. Western Union made a new high for the year and then slipped back to a small net loss.

The general utility list firmed on hopes of modification of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Consolidated Gas touched 25, up 1 1/2, and then lost half the advance. Public Service reached a new high for the year at 36 1/2, up 1 1/2 before running into profit taking.

Further decline in spot silver brought selling into silver issues where losses ranged to more than a point. Anaconda was active and fractionally higher in the copper division. Gold mining issues eased after early firmness.

A number of issues in various sections of the list made new tops for the year or longer. They included New York Air Brake, American Tobacco, Briggs Manufacturing, Campbell Soup, and others.

The forward movement in the oil shares appeared nearing its end with the group continuing to fluctuate irregularly with volume relatively light.

Volume approximated 910,000 shares compared with 1,250,000 shares Friday.

Curb sales were 153,000 shares compared with 208,000 shares Friday.

Dow Jones averages: Industrial, 118.67, off .05; railroad, 33.37, off .01; Utility, 21.48, up .03.

FRANK A. MILLER

We knew Frank A. Miller, master of the Mission Inn at Riverside, who passed away last Saturday. But compared with others of his friends, we knew him but slightly.

Everything we knew of him, however, is of such a character that we felt that those who knew him better than we did, should give expression of his manhood and his worth.

An editorial in the Los Angeles Times, printed on the first page, evidencing tremendous importance in the minds of the editorial department of The Times, we re-print for its value to those who knew him or who should know of Frank A. Miller.

In another column is the appreciation of him by the former publisher of this paper, J. P. Baumgartner, who knew him so well. The Times editorial is as follows:

THE MASTER OF THE INN

Frank Miller is dead. "The Master of the Inn" has greeted the final guest and crossed its threshold for the last time. But such men as Frank A. Miller never die, either on earth where they build for all time or in the presence of the Creator whose gift of life they glorified.

Every piece of historic art and rare craftsmanship which adorns his world-famous hostelry, every stone on Mt. Rubidoux which his love for humanity converted into a shrine of peace and worship, every step taken by the citizens of Riverside to model a city beautiful after the pattern he set them in the Mission Inn, every movement he aided or inspired to preserve the best of old California while advancing the fortunes of the new, are still as truly Frank Miller's as when he moved among them.

Through the years to come multitudes will still climb Mt. Rubidoux to greet the dawn of Easter or to hold quiet peace services on the day of Armistice—tributes to the better side of mankind inaugurated by the Master of the Inn.

The halls and corridors of the Mission Inn still echo with the footfalls of the many world-famous men and women who acknowledged its hospitality when the master himself was there in person to give them welcome; his spirit is still alive in everything that pertains to the ideals on which he made the inn a rendezvous for those rare souls who have something worth while to contribute to the beauty and excellence of life.

Not only in Riverside where for many years he was a leading spirit, or in Southern California which he enriched materially and spiritually in so many constructive enterprises, or in the United States where he set a new high standard for bringing good fellowship to halls of public entertainment; but in lands across the sea whose citizens have met so often at the Mission Inn to further the cause of better international relations, in Mexico and Japan between whom and his country he fostered feelings of friendship by countless acts of personal kindness, will the memory of Frank Miller be preserved as eternally as the cross upon Mt. Rubidoux.

On the doorway of the original Glenwood Tavern where now stands the Mission Inn he inscribed the legend, "Enter friend, this is your house." The Divine Builder opens for the spirit of Frank Miller a door bearing the same inscription.

THE INDIVIDUAL AND SOCIETY

The issue of individual freedom and initiative is receiving a great deal of attention these days, especially by those who demand the right to do much as they please in an economic competitive society. It is an issue that needs greater clarification than is being given to it by those who are pressing it upon public attention.

It has always been a question as to how much the individual may emphasize his own right to give free play to his individual desires. In organized society there must of necessity be some restriction upon the individual. The individual right to think as one pleases and to speak as one pleases is an inherent right in democracy.

Without such rights, democracy cannot function. No one would question the right of a sovereign in an absolute state to exercise free thought and free speech. That right must exist in a state in which the people are sovereign.

This whole question of individual liberty has been ably discussed by Lord Cecil of England in a recent address over the British Broadcasting system. In brief, Lord Cecil notes that the value of liberty must be judged in the light that there is a purpose in creation looking toward progress controlled by the moral law. Such liberty is not a moral right, but a natural instinct; and all natural instincts are subject to discipline either by one's self or by some outward agency like the state.

Yet Lord Cecil recognizes the danger of all external disciplines upon the individual. Mankind has made progress not by outward compulsions, but by the freedom to choose between right and wrong, and between wisdom and folly.

The fruits of individual experience in such choices are seen clearly on every page of human history. The guidance of authority inevitably weakens men in carving out their destinies. Without his freedom of choice, man would never have risen much above the animal stage.

This should be borne in mind, says Lord Cecil, by those who are too prone to depend upon coercion to correct evils and to effect reforms. Even democratic states, given to the rule of majorities, have stamped out the rights of minorities.

We have seen that here in our own country. In the early days, religious heresies were stamped out by majorities. And we hear too much today about laws to suppress political and economic heresies.

A democracy serves best the creative purpose of human progress. But even a democracy may fail in achieving the ends of progress unless we add to our belief in democratic principles a sincere zeal for liberty in all those spheres which have made, and still make, for human progress.

This philosophical statement of individual liberty is well worth thinking about now when the issue is being thrust upon the nation in the political sphere. We cannot resist the belief, however, that the issue is being pressed by those who hold power in the economic world, and who wish to retain that power for selfish ends.

The discipline of all men in society is quite as necessary as the discipline of the herd. Otherwise, the end will be a nation of barons and churls—something which we have believed is 1000 years behind us.

FASCIST TYRANNY

A letter printed in the Manchester Guardian a few weeks ago reveals that brutality and tyranny yet characterizes the fascist regime in Italy. The government maintains a prison on the island of Ponza in the Mediterranean for socialists and liberals who raise any questions about the Duce's rule.

Recently, 55 prisoners on the island, who resided in a filthy old castle crowded together under the vilest conditions, protested because their one privilege of renting a room during the daytime in the village, where they might read and study in quiet, was taken away from them.

They were taken to Naples and tried before a court. They were convicted, and sentenced to 14 additional months on the miserable island where they had been confined.

This is just what may be expected in a country in which personal liberty, freedom of speech and freedom of press have been utterly destroyed. Only force, brutal force, can hold a government of that sort together. What is efficiency, or orderliness, or the running of trains on time, and such like, when bought at the price of suppressed rights and liberties by brutal force?

Needless to say, such a government can never hope to gain the loyalty of its bravest and best people. It may command the servility of slaves. But in all history, such servility has never made for a strong state or a contented people. If there is one such example of tyranny brought to light, we may be certain that there are many more.

Prosperous Sweden Might Point the Way

A Stockholm correspondent of the New York Times quotes a visiting American economist as applying the nickname "Prosperity Island" to Sweden. Leaving out of consideration for the moment the fact that Sweden is not an island, the sobriquet seems justified by the facts. For Sweden, which had as many as 172,000 unemployed in the depth of the depression, now has cut that total to 89,000.

The city of Stockholm, indeed, has a shortage of labor in some fields. There is said to be a scarcity of youths for office boy and other minor clerical jobs. Demand for skilled workers in engineering industries exceeds the supply. Some rural sections of Sweden report a shortage of agricultural workers. There still is much unemployment, however, among miners, stone workers and unskilled laborers.

The correspondent is especially impressed by the fact that the Swedish government is able to keep 60 per cent of these unemployed busy on public relief projects. "Relief by work" is quoted as the Swedish unemployment motto through all the post-war years.

The parliaments of 1933-35 authorized credits of 364,000,000 kroner for relief projects designated to provide 18,000,000 days of work. As a matter of fact, only 6,000,000 work days were provided up to the first of this year and 1,500,000 more for the half year ending the last of this month. This is explained on the ground that normal business recovery "set in too soon" for the whole program to be given a fair trial.

Probably Swedish workers do not regret recovery setting in "too soon." On the other hand, they probably also are grateful for the stop-gap provided by the work relief program and are mindful of the advantage of having such relief kept available in event of the employment tide again taking an adverse turn.

Right of Privilege

Both houses of the California Legislature have passed the bill giving reporters the legal right to protect confidential information. The law already extends the right of privileged communication to clergymen, lawyers, physicians and husband and wife. All these are for the protection of private relations. The reporter whose concern is public relations has been, up to now, denied this legitimate protection.

If the source of a newspaper man's information is safeguarded he is better able to serve the public. Moreover, it would stop a very familiar form of bluff on the part of public bodies. If an abuse is exposed in a newspaper a public body that does not want to do anything about it at once calls the reporter and demands that he reveal the source of his information. Of course, what should concern an investigating public body is whether the facts are true, irrespective of the source. The reporter has already supplied the information and the leader for an independent inquiry by a body with power to summon witnesses and take testimony under oath. The test of sincerity of an investigating body is whether it goes after the facts or after the reporter.

Aside from that, in states where a reporter in his public relations can claim the right of privilege, the law works well. That, after all, is the real test.

Huey the Horse

We resent the accolade awarded Senator Huey Long for "the greatest exhibition of physical endurance in the senate's history." He does not deserve it. Among the 50 other senators who sat and also endured while the Kingfish talked, there were probably 30 whose exhibition of sheer physical stamina was more impressive than Huey's. When a man with the constitution of a horse exhibits the physical endurance of a horse, there is no great occasion for applause. But when a man with the endowments of a human being undergoes, for duty's sake, a physical test that would exhaust a horse, that man is entitled to both applause and respect.

Senator Long ought to give his exhibitions in a corral, where their worth could be tested by competition from his own kind.

The Last Mile

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

MR. CAT

He rubs his fur upon my knees
He makes me, little, purring pleas.

He hopes by some dark, feline, spell
To get me to remove the bell,

That wails as plain as any words
The troubled little singing birds.

An innocent he seems to be,
But when a bird is in a tree

He mews and yowls and runs about,
And faintly hopes I'll let him out.

He seems, to say: "I won't molest
A single birdling in its nest."

I have a kind and gentle heart
And would not rend a bird apart.

I rather like to hear them sing
Their pretty little songs of Spring.

My heart is warm, I'm tame and mild.
I would not hurt a little child.

Those birds need never feel alarm
I'm wholly innocent of harm.

I only want a little fun,
But cats are liars—every one.

Their souls are black, and, furthermore,
You cannot trust them past the door.

WHEN LENGTH IS PROTECTION

In Australia earthworms sometimes attain a length of six feet. Not even the earliest early bird ever attempts to catch one of them.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE GHOST OF THE TUDORS

When contemporary affairs become most tangled and reactions to them most heated it is a good thing to read history as a stabilizer of one's thinking.

Most of the things we fight over have been fought over before.

Following the Supreme Court decisions on various aspects of the New Deal and the President's comment on them, I read the great Marshall's celebrated opinion in the case of McCulloch vs. Maryland, in which one finds perhaps the clearest statement of Marshall's philosophy of strong national government. I dipped into the arguments of Alexander Hamilton and James Madison respecting the interplay of authority and power between the States and the Nation. And I browsed a bit in the opinions of Chief Justice White in this field. These are high points in the judicial literature and controversial discussion of the points at issue now.

But the liveliest stimulation to thought on the present controversy I found in John Buchanan's Oliver Cromwell which was published only last year.

In the current drive for greater centralization of power over the national enterprise in the Federal Government, one may see the ghost of the Tudors walking. The paternalism of the government, against which Cromwell later fought, was inherited from the Tudors.

The Tudors set out to make the central government all-dominant. They were quite as determined to block economic individualism as to block the trouble-making nobles when they pitted their purifications and privileges against the central government. They undertook to regulate prices, wages and interest rates. They invented hobbies for the grasping landlord and trader. They dictated methods of business, industry and agriculture. In a hundred and one ways they established for the central government a direct interest in the private enterprise of the nation.

This Tudor program, so much like much of the recent legislation, was put in operation before the age of economic individualism got under way.

Since then we have had a long run of experience with a vast freedom of enterprise under individualism. Now we witness a return to the Tudor philosophy of tighter and tighter control from the center.

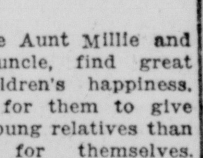

That growing complexity calls for new measures of control is obvious, but the question we must settle before many moons go by is the extent to which this new control should be established.

Is there something dynamic and creative in individualism which the Tudors missed? If so, can we save that dynamic and creative something through wisely devised controls that will not Tudorize America?

"THANK YO U" DEBTS

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS: Do you owe anybody anything tonight? If you do, pay your debt. I am thinking particularly of thank you debts. Has anybody done something for you and gone unthanked? Make it up right away. I will tell you why.

Aunt Millie was shopping last week and saw a nice little hat that she thought would go well with her blue print dress. It cost $2.49. She was going to try it on when she stopped and said:

"Next week is Carlo's birthday. I want to give him those stamps he needs to fill his American series. Three and a half would buy him a few. Five dollars would do better. I'll hold on to that money and get some stamps for him."

The stamps were sent in good time for the birthday and Aunt Millie smiled happily to think how glad Carlo would be to have them. She read, in imagination, the warm note of thanks he would send her.

She listened for the mailman's whistle and ran hastily to answer it. There were the usual bills, post cards and advertisements, but no letter with a crooked handwriting she knew so well. Days passed and no note.

"By the way, did you hear from Carlo?" asked Uncle Alf.

"Not yet," said Aunt Millie, trying to hide the disappointment in her voice. "Maybe he hasn't had time yet."

"Time? Nonsense! How much time would it take him to sit down and send off a note to you the minute he got those stamps? I tell you, Millie, you just waste your money and your kindness on an ungrateful young pup. I hope that next time you forget all about his birthday. Let him feel how it seems to be overlooked for a change. And next time buy yourself the hat you want and save me the trouble. I had that one sent home today."

I know that Carlo meant to write that note right away, but first he had to put the stamps in his album. After that his mother said it was bedtime. Next day school and lessons and games took most of the time, and Jimmy came in to look at the new stamps. After that Carlo thought about the note only when he was busy doing something else. Here and There

The low wing type of monoplane is gaining steadily in popularity.

Passenger comfort is the dominant aim in the trend toward full enclosure of aircraft. The 1933-34 production, two-thirds of which were enclosed, is indicative of this trend.

Over 80 per cent of German heavy trucks are powered with Diesel engines.

Through the use of special glass windows that resist temperatures of 3500 degrees F., and high speed photography, the manner in which fuel oil burns in a Diesel engine has been discovered by aviation research scientists.

The average service station price of gasoline, as of Jan. 1, 1935, was 14.07 cents per gallon, exclusive of tax.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 25 Years Ago Today

JUNE 17, 1910

The Bank of Orange had filed a notice with the county clerk, decreasing its capital stock from $100,000 to $50,000.

There had been recorded an agreement on the part of the Lemon Heights Land company (C. E. Utt and Sherman Stevens) to convey to Carrie E. Marcy, of Chicago, a large share of the Lemon Heights subdivision northeast of Tustin. The lots in question would be conveyed to the purchaser on payments that would aggregate the sum of $27,500. With the land would go 150 shares of stock in the Red Hill Water company.

The average American transport plane operates at a rate of over 160,000 miles a year, or approximately three times the rate of five years ago.

There are only 280 planes on the active list of U. S. transport lines.

Practically 60 per cent of the world's air traffic is moved by American transport lines.

Two-thirds of all new planes ordered for the Army Air Corps during the four-year period 1928-31 were training, observation, and cargo types.
